

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Plight of South's Cotton Share-Croppers a Major Concern of New Deal

PRIDE, Alabama—The Department of Agriculture, way up in Washington, is staging a losing fight with Seth Holt and his two sons and their watermelon.

There is no law in this State to keep a man from eating watermelon, but to the Government there is some significance in the fact that this is the principal occupation of Seth and the two grown boys as they sit in the shade in the midst of their worn-out cotton acres.

The Government has a material interest in the life of the three Holts and the thousands of other "share-croppers" of the Cotton Belt, for through the AAA it has poured out the vast sum of $163,624,878.56 in the past year in an effort to save the cotton crop from a ruinously low price and cotton farmers from destruction.

The Holts live in a bleak, unattractive shack that stands by the dusty road a mile west of here. The shack is not their own, nor did it belong to the family who lived there last year, nor the family before that. The fact that the windows have neither sashes nor shutters will not trouble them next winter, for they will not be there. Indeed, there is reason to doubt if they will last through the present month and into the picking season. A man can't live on watermelons.

"No Furnish"

"Trouble is, some of 'em don't give you no furnish in the growin' season. They take care of you long as you're workin' on the crop, and then they shut down on you."

The older boy was speaking, quite without bitterness. He held a red cube of watermelon on the end of his knife, took it into his mouth, calmly spat the seeds at a hound dog stretched out in the dust.

"If you can't get through to pickin' season, you have to move on, and he gets everything—the whole crop."

The "furnish" about which he talked is the system of "furnishing" and "deducting" food and keep during the season. It is the curse of the Holts and all their kind in the deep South.

Never out of debt, they are kept by landlords who provide them with "furnish" and deduct the cost, plus high interest from the proceeds of the cotton crop.

Ask Holt why he moved from the fields "over yonder" last year. He says, with a wry smile: "The deducts got me."

Among the negroes, the explanation is more fanciful. They say of a "cropper" who has moved on, "The owls got him."

Out of Debt?

Here in Pride there is a landowner who is also a storekeeper. For four years he has kept the "croppers" on his land, advanced provisions, kept books that have been red for four years.

He is pleased with the high price of cotton and the Government bounties. He says his men will benefit greatly. He really means that he will benefit.

"Yes, sir," he says, "they'll all be able to pay me what they owe me this year—all except one." A man who can get out of debt is fortunate in these parts. And he is rare.

Four miles west of Pride there is a landowner who says: "The Government's doin' great things. Some of the croppers will get out of debt—maybe one out of every ten."

Landless Army

Thus in the now reasonably prosperous South, you run up against the fact that there is a vast, footloose army of cotton workers without cotton acres, living in hovels, taking up panhandling in the cities, living on relief.

Thus also the New Deal finds that in tackling the economic question of boosting the price of cotton, it ran into a social question (Continued on Page Seven)

RHODE ISLAND WAR ON REDS GAINING SPEED

Governor Warns of Danger As He Appeals for Federal Troops

LEGISLATORS MEET

Strike Area Quiet Today After Clashes

By International News Service. Possibility of intervention by federal troops to preserve order in strike-torn Rhode Island textile areas dimmed today as national guardsmen consolidated their control and established order throughout the region.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 14.—While weary national guardsmen with fixed bayonets ruled the Rhode Island strike riot zones today—politics in the legislature having raised a seemingly impassable barrier to a call for United States army soldiers—a statewide roundup of Communists continued.

"We are face to face now, not with a textile strike, but with a Communist uprising," were the words of Governor Theodore Francis Green in a special message to an extraordinary session of the Rhode Island assembly.

A resolution declaring a state of insurrection and appealing for the regulars was prepared by the governor after serious riots in Woonsocket, Saylesville, Central Falls and Bristol, had caused a toll of two dead and scores injured.

MAY LEAVE STATE

Reports that radicals, being balked in Rhode Island, might invade the neighboring state of Connecticut, caused anxiety there.

Fifteen known Communists, one of which signed a statement admitting taking part in the Saylesville riots, were arrested here.

Police in other cities, acting on the appeal of Governor Green, were making a concerted drive against Communists.

At the same time, two United States immigration inspectors and two department of justice agents, arrived from Washington after reports were current that there had been a Communist drive.

MAYOR CADY URGES CLEAN-UP OF LOTS

With the dates of Pumpkin Show rapidly approaching, Mayor W. B. Cady today called upon all owners of vacant lots in the city to have the weeds mowed down so that the city will present a welcoming appearance when the show opens.

"Many lot owners have been careless in this respect and we would appreciate their cooperation by having the weeds mowed down at once," the mayor said.

NEW INCENTIVE IS OFFERED STUDENTS

An incentive for better scholarship and citizenship was inaugurated at Circleville high school today.

According to the plan announced by Principal E. I. Gephart, any student who is a member of the honor roll and whose character traits are above the average, will be dismissed at 3 p. m. instead of 3:45 o'clock, which is the end of the day's last period.

To attain the honor roll, a student must receive a mark of 90 in three or more subjects at the school. A student's character will be studied on his record for honesty, punctuality, and reliability.

The school operates on a schedule of eight periods of 45 minutes each every day. The last, or eighth period, is devoted to study, physical education, or to some outside activity. No classes are held during this period. To many students it is a study hour.

School officials believe many pupils will be happy to be dismissed 45 minutes earlier each day and will jump at the opportunity to comply with the rules to get this concession.

The plan goes into operation at once. Last six weeks of last year's summer term will be used to measure the student's eligibility as far as scholarship is concerned.

Electric Company Is Ending Impediments

To eliminate much of the interference which bothers radio listeners and to insure continuous electric service in Circleville during the progress of storms, the Southern Ohio Electric Co. has a force of 30 men in this territory, removing trees along its high tension lines.

The work will eliminate the possibility of trees blowing into the line and causing breakdowns. In this territory trees are being removed along the cross-country high tension lines between Chillicothe and Circleville, Chillicothe and Jackson and Chillicothe and Hillsboro.

Miss Harris is a graduate of the class of 1930 of Circleville high school, and of Oberlin college.

Ann Burlak, so-called Communist "Red Flame," is pictured at Fall River, Mass., making an impassioned plea with textile strikers to continue their walkout. The fiery girl orator talked for more than three hours.

COAST HUNTED FOR AIRPLANE

Unidentified Plane Reported Over Atlantic; Airports Checked.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Sighting of an unidentified airplane over the Atlantic, about 200 miles southeast of Halifax, heading in the general direction of the Atlantic coast, was reported today by the skipper of the S. S. Black Gull.

The Sayville, L. I., station of the Mackay radio at 7 a. m., E. S. T., intercepted the following general broadcast from the master of the ship:

"Latitude 42.06 N., longitude 63.51 W., sighted airplane flying low heading west southwest. Wind northeast. Fresh breeze. Overcast."

All airports in the immediate vicinity of New York expressed surprise when told of the report from the Black Gull's master. Pending official confirmation of the report, preparations were being made to receive the plane should it land here.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—All British airports were canvassed without success today for the possible identity of a plane reported sighted off the coast of Nova Scotia, heading west.

The British air ministry said it knew nothing of any trans-Atlantic attempt being under way.

CONTRACT FOR GAS PIPE LINE INTO CITY LET

Phipps Reports Job Let for $1,350,447; Contractor Not Named

WILL CROSS RIVER

Condemnation Plans to be Started Soon.

Contract for the laying of the Universal Pipe Line Company's new gas lines from the Ohio river at Ashland, Ky., to Circleville has been let at a cost of $1,350,447.36, W. H. Phipps, president of the concern, has announced.

City council recently passed an ordinance in which the Universal Co. agreed to supply gas to Circleville consumers at a 45 cent rate. Since passage of the ordinance, no word had been received from the new concern until Mr. Phipps' announcement today.

ASKS CROSSING PERMIT

Although declining to disclose the names of the contractors or the source of the gas, Phipps said that Wade Ellis, former Ohio attorney general, is now in Washington, D. C., making arrangements for the permit to cross the Ohio river at Ashland. It was decided to cross at Ashland, he said, rather than at Portsmouth, because Ironton is also interested in the proposition.

Mr. Phipps indicated that work on the laying of the pipe line would begin next week, adding that the company, which was recently incorporated, had set aside $9,000,000 for its gas properties, including fields and pipe lines.

PLANS CONDEMNATION

It is probable that Mr. Phipps will attend the next meeting of the city council to be held next Wednesday, and have a resolution to proceed with the condemnation of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. plant here. The Universal Co. has agreed to indemnify the city of Circleville against the cost of such procedure.

Reports add that Lady Adrian showered 5,000 francs on a down-and-out gambler who begged a few coins.

FARM CENSUS TO START JANUARY 1

Government Seeking Complete Information; Local People To Do Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The agricultural census of Pickaway-co is expected to get underway about January 1, 1935, it was learned at the U. S. Census Bureau today.

The work, which is expected to give employment to from 12 to 20 residents of Pickaway-co during a 30-day period, will be the most complete census of farm activities and conditions in the county that has ever been undertaken by the Federal government.

The jobs to be created in Pickaway-co will be controlled and disbursed by local Democratic leaders operating in cooperation with the state patronage dispensers.

In districts where the incumbent Congressman is a Democrat he will recommend to the Census Bureau the appointment of the supervisor who in turn will employ the enumerators.

The census of agriculture will include the name and address of the farm operator; farm tenure; farm acreage, which includes all crop land, all pasture land, and all farm woodland; the total value of the farm; the acreage and yield of each of the principal field crops, and vegetables; the number of trees and the yield of each of the principal fruits; the number and value of each class of livestock, poultry and eggs; and farm population.

COLUMBUS REFUSES RATE COMPROMISE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Further negotiations today were under way between the Columbus city council and the Columbus Railway Power and Light Co., following the rejection by council last night of a proposed compromise electric rate which would save local consumers $734,000 annually.

J. Paul Blundon, city consulting engineer, told the council he did not believe the compromise proposal was fair to the city.

7 Climbers Including American, Found Dead

PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Sept. 14.—Seven mountain climbers, including an American named Karl Amman, were found dead today in an isolated spot in the Bavarian Alps.

The climbers had been missing for several days and search parties had been sent out to look for them.

SLEW NAGGING WIFE, JAIL MAN FOR YEAR

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A British judge and jury today agreed in an unprecedented decision that a man who kills his wife because she "nags" him is not guilty of murder.

Sydney Haggerty, 41, successfully pleaded that he was driven to strangling his wife because she continually nagged him.

The charge of murder was reduced to one of manslaughter, and Haggerty was sentenced to only one year's imprisonment in Old Bailey.

In summing up the case the Judge pointed out that Haggerty was a "nice, peaceable man," whereas his wife was "quarrelsome and violent."

NEW EVIDENCE IN SHIP PROBE

Storekeeper Tells Liquor, Polish, Other Inflammables Kept On Ship.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Liquid polish and other highly inflammable stores were used on the ill-fated Morro Castle, according to testimony given at the federal inquiry here today by William O'Sullivan, of New York city, the liner's deck store-keeper.

This revelation created a sensation. O'Sullivan was asked by Chairman Dickerson N. Hoover of the inquiry board if there were any inflammable stores aboard the Morro Castle.

"Yes," replied the witness, as the spectators leaned forward. "Turpentine, kerosene and varnishes."

Hoover asked O'Sullivan what the kerosene was used for.

"For polishing," the witness answered.

Q. Was liquid polish used on the ship?

A. Yes. They were supplied with a paste polish but I know there was a highly inflammable polish used on the boat.

Q. What was it?

A. I can't think of the name. It smelled of benzine. It was highly inflammable.

Chairman Hoover asked O'Sullivan if he permitted any of the liquid polish in his storeroom.

"No sir," responded the witness, emphatically. "The Ward line did not permit it."

"But you knew it was on the ship?"

"Yes, the stewards used it all the time."

"Did the officers know they were using it?" asked Hoover.

"Yes sir, I think they did," replied O'Sullivan. "It was used on the bridge to shine brass."

RECKLESS MACHINE DRIVERS FEEL IRE

Reckless autoists were still the object of Pickaway-co law authorities today.

Thursday afternoon, Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell arrested the first person this season charged with passing a school bus. Bernard Nelson, of 2365 Sullivant-ave, Columbus, was fined $10 and costs and committed to the county jail by Justice H. O. Eveland for passing a school bus on Route 23, south of town.

It was later learned that Nelson, accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, was driving with fictitious license tags.

Judge J. W. Adkins fined Glenn Lightle, of Washington C. H., $10 and costs for driving recklessly on Route 22, west of the city. He was arrested by Deputy R. E. Armstrong. He made arrangements to pay the fine and was released.

TWO PETITIONS FILED WITH BOARD

Two petitions carrying names of 34 Pickaway-co residents had been filed today with Harry E. Weil, deputy clerk of the board of elections, by the Commonwealth party, the prohibition organization.

Names of nine Orient residents and 25 from Circleville were included.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Secretary of State George S. Myers was to be asked today for a ruling on the legality of several nominating petitions submitted by candidates of the Commonwealth party which were rejected yesterday by the Ross County election board.

'OHIO IS TAMMANIZED,' SAYS G. O. P. NOMINEE

Clarence Brown Tells 400 Party Enthusiasts at Dunlap's Bill Has Been Handed to Taxpayers for Payment; Bricker Praises Nominee

DEMOCRATS ATTACKED IN ORATORY FLOW

Renick Dunlap Charges Underwood With Being "58 Per Cent" Representative; Assails His Pre-Primary Methods

Terming the present state campaign as "the most important political struggle waged in this generation, Clarence J. Brown, Republican candidate for governor, charged Thursday evening "the state administration has Tammanized Ohio and handed the bill for payment to the taxpayers."

Speaking at the 11th district Republican rally at the Congo farm, near Kingston, of Renick W. Dunlap, Republican candidate for Congress, Mr. Brown devoted the greater part of his address to stressing the need for reduction in the governmental machinery and economy in operation.

Saying that the cost of government has steadily increased the face of an insistent demand on the part of the taxpayers for "hard-headed economy," Mr. Brown declared that, "tax burden has been added to tax burden." New departments, bureaus and divisions of government have been created in outstanding numbers.

CITES TAX LAWS

"In this same period," Mr. Brown continued, "new tax laws have been passed and new burdens have been added to those already imposed upon the long suffering public."

The need for additional taxes can be greatly reduced through the application of common sense, common honesty and common decency to governmental problems, the Republicans nominee asserted.

Thursday was a great day for Republicanism in the district when scores of automobiles carried more than 400 of the faithful from their homes in Pickaway, Ross, Fairfield, Hocking and Perry-co to the country home of Renick W. Dunlap.

The "party" put on by Mr. Dunlap, his party's nominee for congress, started in the afternoon and closed after Clarence J. Brown, nominee for governor, spoke in the evening. John W. Bricker, attorney general, was the other speaker of the evening.

The day was perfect, the setting of the rally-termed by Mr. Dunlap a "round up"—was ideal and the flow of oratory most of which assailed present national and state administrations were pleasing indeed to the followers of the G. O. P.

HUNT FOR MISSING GIRL, 23 RESUMED

PINEDALE, Wyo., Sept. 14.—

Search for Miss Virginia Ewing Gates, 23-year-old daughter of Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, passed today with rumors that she had been seen in Lincoln, Neb., following similar reports from Omaha.

Sheriff W. B. (Pat) Holt of Sublette-co insisted that the girl who disappeared from the Dude ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dew near here had left this region. He said that he had definitely established that she was in Rock Springs, Wyo., on Aug. 20, and had presumably hitch-hiked eastward from there.

Both Sheriff Holt and Dew scouted the idea that she had become lost in the wooded hills surrounding the ranch and had perished there Dew said that she had been over every step of that region and knew it like a native. Since her disappearance, a month ago today, searching parties from this ranch have gone over the entire area without finding any trace of her.

MISS MILLER DIES

Mrs. John Strahn, 150 Watt-st., received word Thursday night of the death of her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Miller, 81, of Columbus, which occurred Thursday.

The deceased was born in Circleville, Oct. 26, 1852. She was an active member of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which she was a life-long member.

Funeral services will be held at the late residence, 80 Third-ave, Saturday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Schools Start Work For Parade

Plans for the Circleville public school parade, to be presented on Thursday of the Pumpkin Show, had been practically completed today and work was started in every school building to make the project one of the highlights of the show.

Elementary pupils, totaling more than 1,200, will portray America's principal occupations and professions, while high school students, numbering nearly 400, will depict leisure time activities.

In his great recovery program, President Roosevelt has had much to say about the use of leisure time, and realizing the importance of his statements, school leaders decided that it would be in conformity with the trend of the times, to allow high school students to depict the wise use of "spare" time.

TOPICS ASSIGNED

The following schedule of occupations and professions which grade students will portray, has been tentatively worked out by school principals: Grade one, dairying; grade two, medicine; grade three, mining; grade four, farming; grade five, milling and baking; grade six, canning and lumbering; grade seven, paper making, and grade eight, engineering.

In showing the leisure time activities of a high school, these students will be presented as athletic groups, school activity groups, such as dramatics, music, good reading, and high school branches of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., etc., and social life groups.

It is expected that at least ten floats will be decorated, one from each grade in the elementary schools and at least two from the high school. The floats will carry out the theme of the parade.

Supt. E. L. Daley and Principal E. I. Gephart are chairman of the parade while all of the teachers in the school system are assistants.

BEN HADDOX FACES RETURN TO PRISON

Ben Haddox, of Williamsport, was fined $100 and costs and committed to the county jail Friday by Mayor W. B. Cady on a charge of stealing an auto rim, tire and tube from Francis Solder, Logan-st.

Haddox is on parole from Mansfield reformatory and is expected he will be returned there.

Canned Fruit Juices Add Zest To Winter Menus

"Wholesome and delicious beverages, a pleasant addition to the daily menu, can be obtained from fruit juices canned now.

Grapes, tomatoes, currants, blackberries, and raspberries make excellent juices to have on hand on the emergency food shelf. Wouldn't you like to have a pantry shelf that contains these home canned juices? The popularity of tomato juice, alone, justifies its preparation in quantity to be used for breakfasts or appetizers all winter through.

To can any fruit juices, first wash bottles, jars, caps, and rubbers in boiling water. This sterilization of the containers is very important to the keeping of the juice.

Select only solid fruit which has fully ripened and discard all green, moldy, over-ripe or spoiled fruit. Wash the fruit thoroughly, lifting it from the water rather than pouring off the water. This should be repeated until all sand and dirt is removed. Place the fruit in a kettle and mash with a potato masher and add a small amount of water (1/2 C. to 1 qt. of fruit). Heat over a pan of water or in a double boiler, until soft. Do not allow the fruit to boil because this spoils the flavor of the juice. It is important that the juice be processed at a temperature below the boiling point. A range of 180 to 185 degrees is best if you have a thermometer with which to check the temperature.

Pour the juice into a jelly bag and drain. Carefully siphon or pour off the juice from the sediment. After the juice is strained, add from 1/2 to 1 cup of sugar to a gallon of the juice. Reheat to the simmering point.

Pour the hot juice into hot sterilized jars to within 1 inch of the top to allow for expansion of the liquid caused by heating.

Place the bottles or jars in the hot water bath. Cover them and process for 30 minutes at 180 to 185 degrees, maintaining these temperatures as nearly as possible. At the end of the processing, completely seal the jars and remove them from the hot water bath immediately.

Short-Cut Recipe to Delicious Grape Juice

A favorite grape juice is easily made as follows:

Wash the grapes and stem. Measure and place 1 cup of grapes into hot sterilized glass jars. Add 1 cup of sugar. Fill the jars with boiling water and seal immediately. Invert the jar for a few hours before storing. This juice will be ready to serve in about 6 weeks.

Tomato Juice—Quick Method

Hot water bath processing is unnecessary in canning tomato juice.

Scald and skin the tomatoes. Cook them until well softened. Run the tomatoes through a coarse sieve if you want to make puree, through a fine sieve if you wish a thick juice, or through a cloth bag if you wish to can juice for drinking purposes. Measure juice and for each quart add one teaspoon salt and one teaspoon of sugar. Put into a kettle without any water, start over a slow fire and bring to a full boil. Do not boil the juice for any length of time or you will spoil the flavor. Just bring it to a good boil in order to sterilize, and then can at once.

If you wish to use the tomato juice as a full-flavored appetizer, a spice bag can be added to the juice while bringing it to a boil. Into this spice bag should go a teaspoon of whole cloves, one teaspoon allspice, 1 inch of stick cinnamon and 1/4 teaspoon of pepper.

Odell Is Indicted For Onion Strike Trouble

KENTON, Sept. 14.—Okey Odell, 38, president of the Agricultural Workers' Union and leader of the Hardin-co onion strike was in jail here today following his indictment yesterday by a grand jury on charges of pointing firearms and assault with intent to kill during strike rioting at McGuffey.

Odell's indictment was one of eight issued against strikers and Marshal Wolford Weiss of McGuffey, accused of assaulting Henry Branstetter.

The grand jury's action was the latest development in the weeks-long strife between the onion workers and growers over the recognition of the agricultural union, the growers claiming they could not meet the wage scale demanded by the organization, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

been an influx of Communistic leaders from New York and other cities.

The fear gripping residents in this strike-torn state was demonstrated when guards were posted at the Valley Falls and Cumberland pumping station and a rumor spread of "an alleged Communistic plot to dynamite the water supply of the city of Pawtucket." The rumor, however, could not be substantiated. The guards apparently having been posted as a measure of precaution.

Police said they had seized evidence in a raid on a Communistic headquarters here to show that the Providence Communistic organization was directly concerned with the textile strike disorders in Rhode Island. Nearly a ton of "Red" newspapers, pamphlets, and other printed matter was brought into police headquarters.

49 ARRESTED

Twenty-one alleged Communists were arrested in Central Falls and 28 others in Woonsocket. None of those under arrest was prominent within or without Communistic circles. A majority gave Boston and New York addresses.

PLAN SHOWING PROGRESS FOR STYLE 'REVUE'

Merchants Co-operating; More Details To Be Announced Saturday.

Plans for Circleville's Fall Style Revue, to be staged at the Cliftona Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday and made possible through the co-operation of leading business firms, are progressing rapidly and indicate just how delightful the revue will be. Rehearsals are well under way and will continue daily until the opening of the show.

Approximately 15 merchants have announced their intentions of participating in the event which will be one of the most colorful and elaborate presentations ever shown in Circleville. Fashion will be the theme but the Revue will be interspersed throughout with song and dance numbers, making the pageant something more than a mere style show.

The young women who will appear in charming creations depicting the latest edicts of fashion have been picked from among Circleville's most popular girls. The frocks which they will model will all the distinctive charm of the professional mannequin will be furnished by several leading stores of the city.

A special stage setting is being created with a runway leading out over the front section of the theatre so that everyone in the audience may view with ease each lovely model and her wares.

In tomorrow's Herald will be published a complete list of merchants participating in the Revue and other details regarding the opening of this event.

POULSON TO MEET OHIO CANDIDATES

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—All Democratic candidates for office in Ohio today were invited by Francis Poulson, Democratic state chairman, to attend a campaign "talk-fest" here next Tuesday morning preceding the opening of the Democratic state convention.

"It is our desire to tell all of the candidates for congress, for the general assembly and for county offices our plans for the campaign and how the state organization wants to cooperate with them and get their cooperation in electing as many Democrats as possible November 6," Poulson explained.

Martin L. Davey, gubernatorial nominee and Vic Donahy, nominee for the United States senatorship, will speak at the meeting.

50 YEARS A MARTYR TO CONSTIPATION

But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this splendid letter from Mrs. Haynes:

"For 50 years I have been a martyr to constipation. Have tried every remedy under the sun.

"One day I read an account of some one who had been relieved by ALL-BRAN, but I thought 'What was the use of me trying anything more when all else had failed?'

"A while after, I read it again. That time I thought I would try it, it would do no harm anyway.

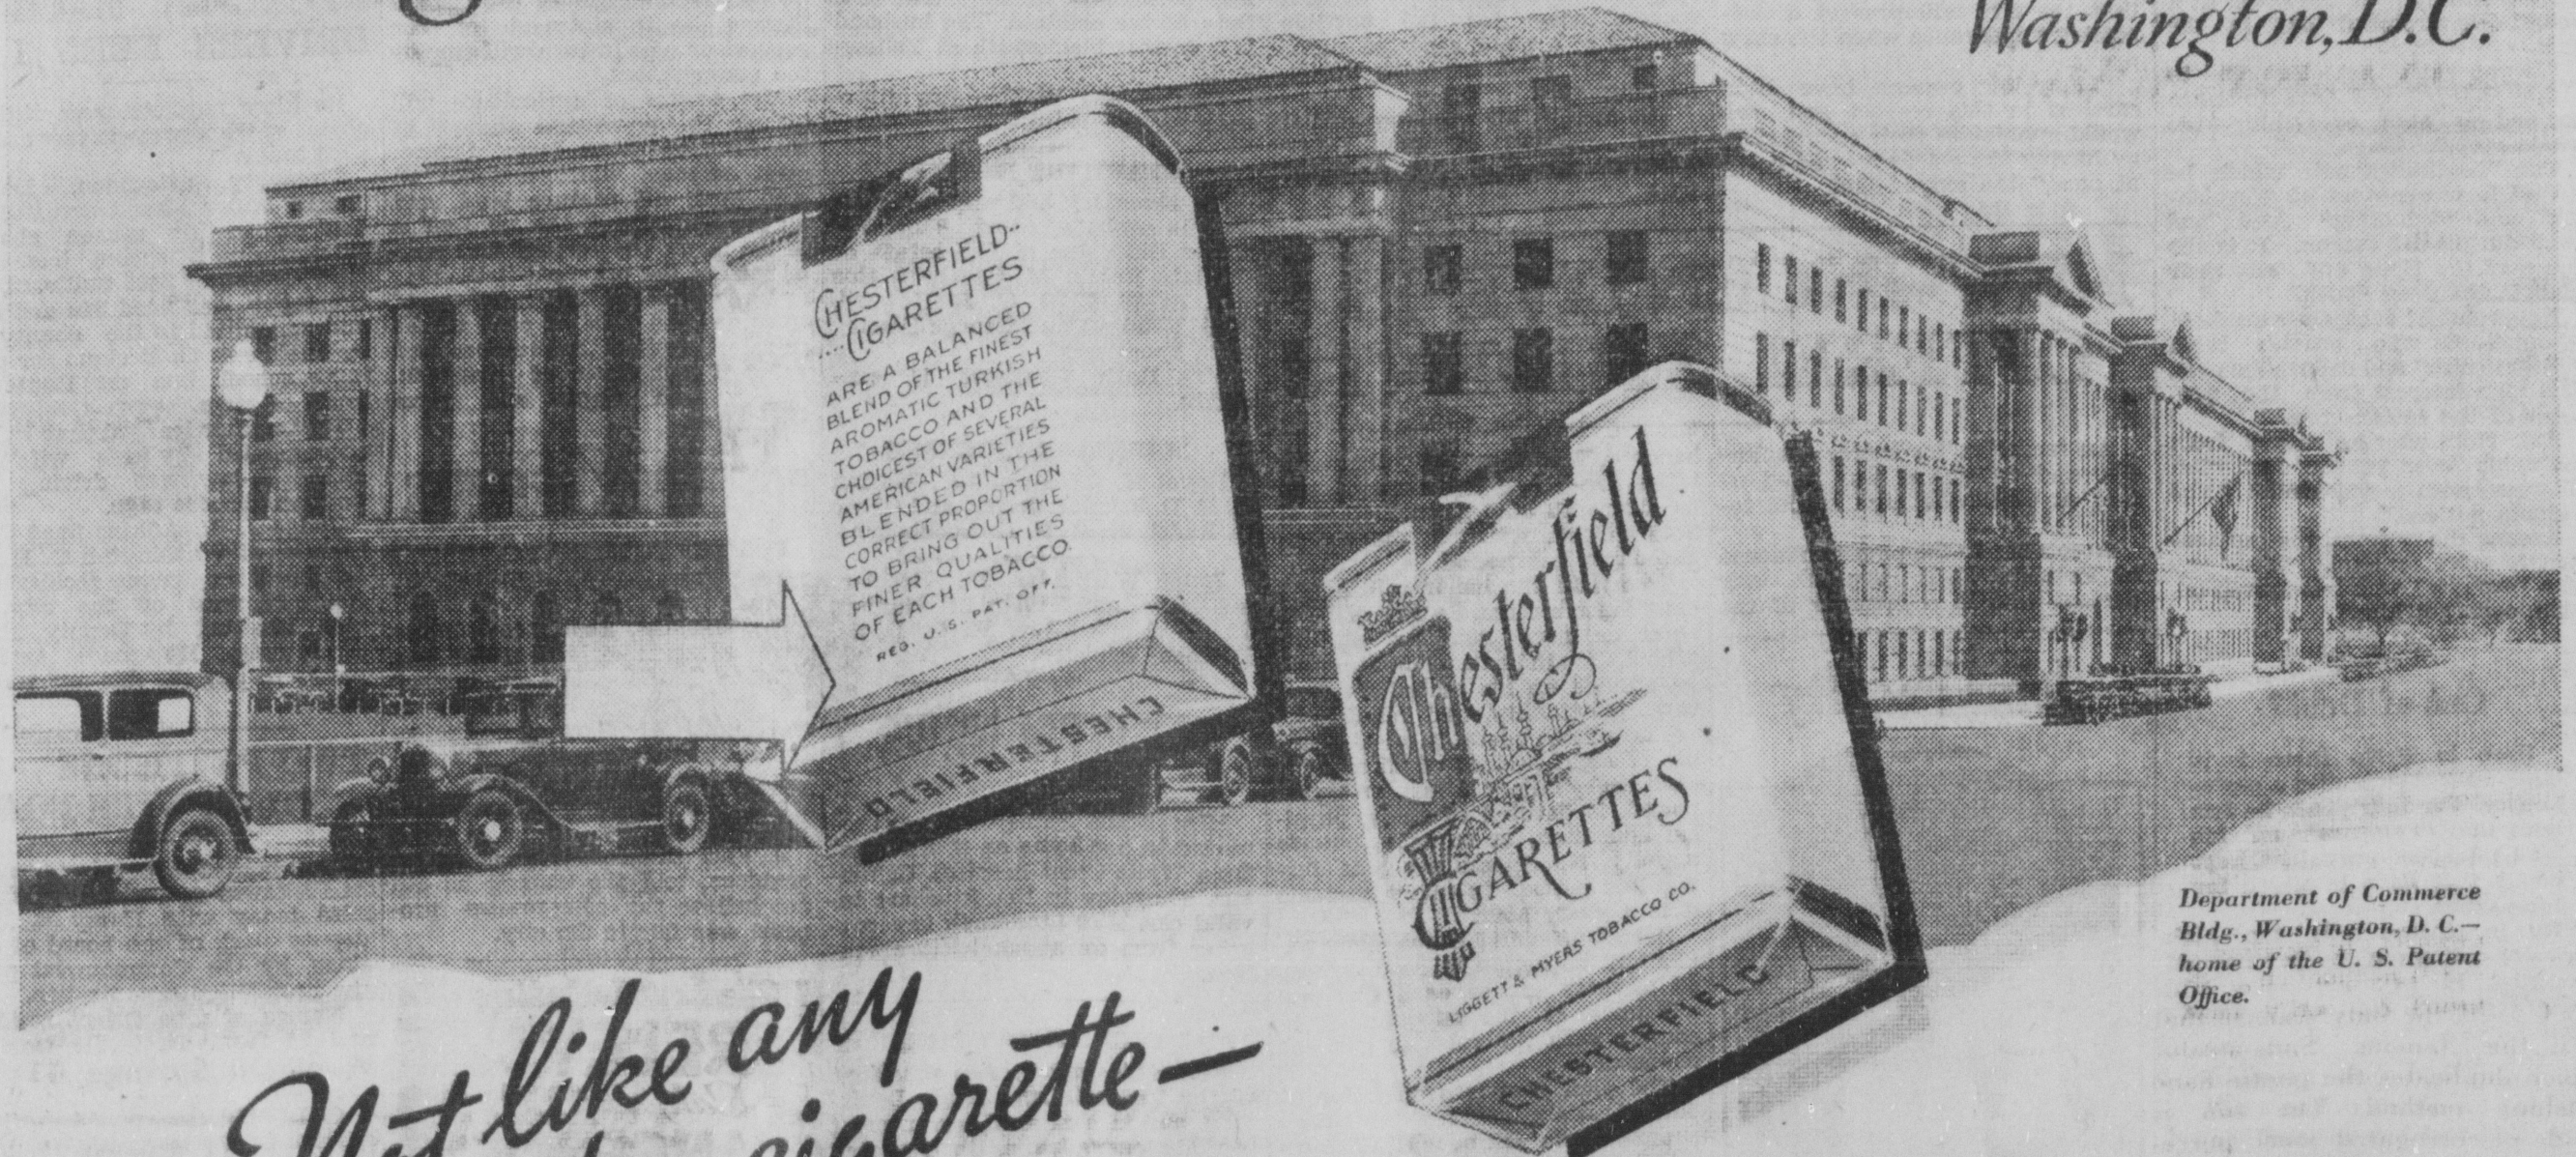

"I began with a small dish of your ALL-BRAN for breakfast, and wonderful to say, I never need to take any physic at all now. How I wish other poor sufferers from constipation could be persuaded to try it."—Mrs. Sarah Haynes, 138 Cedarwood Terrace, Rochester, N. Y.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. Also iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. It's so much safer than taking patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

A SCOTCH soldier was in bad for not saluting an officer or something serious like that, and a court-martial ordered him to be taken right out and shot. The Scotchman asked for time out to count his money before he handed over his personal effects to be sent to his parents.

Well, they say that the last fellow that told this story had a Scotchman in his audience, and the Scotchman didn't laugh. He got up and said, "That's nae a true tale!"

So the story-teller told him no offense was meant and all that, and the Scotchman says, "Nay, it's nae the offense I'm mindin', but the story is false! Any Scotchman would know how much money he had wi'-out pausin' to count it."

Don't Forget Corn Bread!

As Autumn coolness increases the family's appetites, there are certain additions we can make to the daily menus, which will add nourishment, give variety, please with their flavor and best of all demand but little from the cook in time and trouble. One of these additions is old fashioned cornbread which is universally liked, but sometimes forgotten for months at a time while less nourishing breads hold a place on the menu. Try this recipe for:

Boston Corn Bread

One cup yellow cornmeal; one half cup flour; three teaspoons of baking powder; one teaspoon of salt; one teaspoon sugar; three fourths cup milk; two eggs; one tablespoon shortening. Mix the cornmeal, flour and baking powder well together, add salt and sugar, mix again then add the milk and well beaten eggs. Pour in the melted shortening. Stir well. Pour into a baking pan rubbed with shortening, and bake in a hot oven, 300 degrees, about twenty minutes. Serve hot.

is seeking a supreme court berth; Helen Black Anderson, former district committee woman; David J. Lewis, of New Lexington, who ran against Mel G. Underwood two years ago; Sen. Robert Pfeiffer, of Columbus, representing the Pickaway-Franklin district, and Paul M. Herbert, nominee for lieutenant governor. Herbert was introduced prior to several of the others named but he is mentioned last because his short talk proved of much interest to his listeners.

He arrived in time to hear Renick Dunlap charge Congressman Underwood with being a "58 per cent congressman" attending only that percentage of sessions. Herbert decried the need for congressmen who attended the sessions for which they are elected. He said: "This is no day for duckers. We must elect men to congress who will vote."

Herbert, a former state commander of the American Legion and a former Ohio senator from this district, went on to score the leadership of Governor White and the failure of the legislature to solve the question brought up by the reduction of the mill limitation from 15 to 10. He said: "The nominee of the Republican party for governor is experienced enough to lead this great state out of the rut the present administration has placed it in. He, too, has the courage to direct its destinies."

Then the dinner bell rang.

OVER 300 FED

More than 300 persons including candidates, district, state and county party leaders including committeemen and women and just plain Republicans, lined up past the cook wagon, which some jokingly said Mr. Underwood must have loaned to the host. Ham sandwiches, baked beans, apple sauce, cold slaw, pickles, ice cream and cake and coffee, plus cigars and cigarettes comprised the menu. Despite the fact that more were at the dinner tables than expected all received well-proportioned helpings. Mr. Dunlap, his wife, their son Nelson and his wife of Chicago, and their daughter, Mary helped during the dinner hour. Other members of the Dunlap family including David and daughter, Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. John H. senior and junior, of Williamsport, and Philip of Kingsport were prominent during the dinner hour.

After a short fellowship hour the evening program got underway with a chorus of men led by Mrs. Albert N. Kishler, of New Lexington, providing music.

Mr. Bricker, who hurried to the Dunlap home from Toledo where he spoke at noon, arrived at 6:50 p. m. and after a hurried meal was introduced as the first speaker.

BRICKER LAUDS BROWN

He covered state issues and said he would not assail the legislature for its leadership because it didn't have any. Mr. Bricker paid flowery compliments to Clarence J. Brown of whom he said "The Republican party of Ohio could not have found a more able man." He went on to say the Democratic party could not solve the state's problems because of its cross-current set-up but the Republicans could because of the harmony which followed Mr. Brown's nomination.

"For the good of all of us it is necessary for the voters of Ohio to elect Clarence J. Brown their governor," he declared.

Mr. Dunlap's address in the afternoon dealt largely upon the alleged shortcomings of his opponent. He charged that Congressman Underwood and members of his family have been paid $120,445.94 in salaries since he took office the first time.

TELLS HIS STAND

Stating his contemplated stand if he is elected to congress, Mr. Dunlap went on record: "I will not oppose a bill because the president is a Democrat, neither will I vote for one because he asks it, but I will use the gray matter in my head to do what I think best for the people of the 11th Ohio district."

He assailed Congressman Underwood for his publication of two letters sent him by Dr. J. M. Lantz of Lancaster, and Harry B. Welch of Rockbridge, congratulating him on his congressional record and offering their aid. "Mr. Underwood did not have the dates of those letters published, neither did he have the entirety of the letters published. That is the kind of man I am running against for congress." He assailed the asserted unethical last minute attack of the congressman on his opponents for the nomination.

SCIOTO-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The enrollment for the first grade is 28. There are 13 girls and 15 boys.

The enrollment for the second grade is 28. There are 14 girls and 14 boys.

We are working out a fruit project in the second grade. "Eat More Fruit" posters and a book of fruits are being made in the art classes. Each child is given a card upon which is drawn a bunch of grapes. One grape is placed upon his card daily by each child who has earned it because of perfect spelling. All are trying to be the first to complete his card. A fruit blackboard border adds to the attractiveness of the room.

In the third grade we have 17 girls and 15 boys, making a total of 32 pupils.

In the fourth grade we have 16 girls and 18 boys making a total of 34 pupils.

The enrollment for the fifth grade is 29. There are 12 girls and 17 boys.

Up to date, there are 31 pupils enrolled in the sixth grade, of this number, 14 are girls and seventeen are boys.

One new boy, John Gibson, has been added to the sixth grade. He is a transfer from Franklin-co.

The attendance for the sixth grade has been perfect for the first week, and we earnestly hope this record will not be broken without a very good cause.

The seventh grade has an enrollment of 25 pupils, nine girls and 16 boys.

The Freshman English class is starting the year by becoming acquainted with the dictionary. So far, they have learned the uses of it and are now learning the dictionary markings and proper pronunciation.

The upper class members are making plans for the Freshman initiation, which is to be held Friday, Sept. 21.

All classes except the Freshman class have chosen their class officers. The seniors elected: Carl Gulick, Pres.; Betty Peters, Vice Pres.; Marvin Winfough, Treas., and Frances Hafey, Sec.

The Juniors elected: Carl Younion, Pres.; Velma Burgett, Vice Pres.; Mary West, Treas., and Helen Mantle, Sec.

The Sophomores elected: Gale Carfrey, Pres.; Emerson Sheets, Vice Pres.; Malcolm Williams, Sec., and Raymond Hott, Treas.

Dean's Calcimine Victory Alters National Outlook

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—What was laughingly called a "crucial series" some 24 hours back took on a more serious aspect today as the New York Giants resumed defense of their National league leadership against the fighting St. Louis Cardinals.

Whatever humor Giants' fans felt toward the seriousness of the Cardinals' penant threat was fully removed today after young Paul Dean pitched the champions into submission before 6,000 home towners in 12 innings, winning 2-0.

Thus the Giants, who entered the series entrenched behind a five and one-half game lead, found their margin reduced one full game and yet have to face brother Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, possibly Tex Carleton and maybe brother Paul again in the remaining three contests.

NEED CLEAN SWEEP

A clean sweep of the series for the Cardinals will leave the champions still one and one half games in front.

Dean's six hit pitching combined with timely hitting gave him his 16th victory of the season and his fifth over the Giants this year against one loss to them. "Dizzy" has also won five and lost one to the champions.

Three hits in the 12th and M1 Ott's error were contributing factors to the defeat of Freddy Fitzsimmons, who hurled one of the best games of his career. He allowed nine hits in all, but until the 12th not one Cardinal advanced past second base.

With Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe pitching the Detroit Tigers turned back the Washington Senators 2-0 and held their American league lead of 3½ games over New York, who defeated Cleveland 3-1.

Rowe allowed Washington seven hits but he was effective in the pinches and coasted through to his 23rd victory over a year while his mates gathered 11 safeties off Stewart and McColl.

SELKIRK CLUBS

A homer by young George Selkirk with Lou Gehrig on base in the sixth inning broke a 1-1 deadlock.

Vernon "Lefty" Gomez had one of his good days, turning back the Indians with only three hits as he hung his 25th win. Oral Hildebrand allowed the New Yorkers six hits.

The Philadelphia Athletics game at St. Louis was postponed because of rain.

SERIES OPENS IN DETROIT, UNLESS?

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Of the $100,000 to be paid by the Ford Motor Company for broadcasting rights in the 1934 World's series some $42,000 will go into the players' fund, Commissioner K. M. Landis said today.

The series will open in Detroit, Oct. 3, the Commissioner announced, provided the Tigers protect their lead over the Yankees. The first two games will be played on the American league champion's home lot, with the series moving to the Polo grounds for the next three games, unless the St. Louis Cardinals do the unexpected and nose out the Giants.

Details of the series were worked out in the offices of Commissioner Landis here at a meeting of moguls representing the Giants, Cardinals and Cubs of the National league and the Yankees and Tigers of the American league.

The National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia Broadcasting system will broadcast the games.

The Tigers and Giants named 23 players and two coaches on their eligible lists.

CHILLICOTHE COACH WRITES ON RULES

BY T. J. VERNIA
Chillicothe High School Coach

As usual, there are a few alterations this season in the football rules. However, quoting the 1934 official football rules, the changes are minor in nature, the principal ones being a change in the dimensions of the ball; second, a change in the forward pass regulations covering an incomplete pass on, above, or behind the opponent's goal line; and third, some changes in definitions and penalties.

To these changes the Ohio High School Athletic Association teams have added another and very important new ruling which permits the throwing of one forward pass per scrimmage anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

PASS IMPORTANT

In a discussion of the above differences, the last-named stands out as the most important to high school football. The other three, applying as well to college games, will make the game better. The smaller size of the ball will make it easier to handle and to pass, thus opening up the game considerably. The fact that the first forward pass across the goal line in completed will not automatically go to the other side but simply be brought back and count as a down will lead to more goal-line passing. The second incomplete pass over the goal, however, will be ruled as a touchback and be given to the opponents on the 20-yard line as was formerly the custom on all such passes.

The most noticeable new definition is the one which permits a punt to be held by one player and kicked by a teammate. This will lead to quicker and longer as well as more spectacular kicks. It is hoped other minor rulings allow the huddle to last longer than 15 seconds (last year's limit) but require as before the ball to be put in play within 30 seconds; also no player can move any part of his body in such a manner as to draw an opponent offside (formerly only his feet were required to be stationary). These last two merely clear up interpretations of the rules which caused trouble in other years.

FOLLOWS PRO PLAN

Above all these, the Ohio high schools' adoption of the pass anywhere behind the line of scrimmage rule is far the most interesting. Previously used very successfully in professional games, this change was suggested to the National College Rules Committee and, therefore, the passer must be five yards back of the scrimmage line. That means the passing play can move easily be detected by the defense and the men covered by the defensive backfield. Now in high school games, the passer can run into the line, stop quickly and whip a pass down the field. The boys like it very much and it should make the game more interesting to the spectators.

Why should you covet your neighbor's ox when you can tax the thing enough to provide yourself a pension?

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

ABOUT OHIO STATE

For those guys who are not certain what Ohio State's schedule is this year, here it is:

October 6, Indiana.
October 13, at Illinois.
October 20, Colgate.
October 27, at Northwestern.
November 3, at Western Reserve.
November 10, Chicago.
November 17, Michigan.
November 24, Iowa.

Here's some information on the squad, too, ground out by the Buckeye news department, headed by Harold Schellenger with Jim Renick on the sports end—There are ten letter-men, Yards, Wetzel, Jack Smith, Rees, Pincura, Captain Monahan, Fisch, Heekin, Kabe'o and McAfee. * * * Six are backfield men, one an end and the other three linemen. * * * Men on the squad weighing over 200 pounds are: Lewis Zirkle, Defiance, tackle, 207; Millard Scholl, Lorain, tackle, 219; Regis Monahan, Lorain, guard, 210; Gilbert Harre, Toledo, tackle, 201; Chuck Hamrick, Bidwell, tackle, 213; Augie George, Dayton, tackle, 216.

TIPPY IN UNIFORM

The lightest man on the squad, William Henry Dye, known to you as "Tippy"—Dye weighs in at 151, is a sophomore quarterback standing 5 feet 8 inches, and can run, is plenty smart and can toss passes like bullets. * * * Too small for the conference, you say? Maybe, but he will be reckoned with when the team is named. We'll wager—You remember Dye as Pomeroy's great dribbling basketballer.

Last year's record:
Ohio 75, Virginia 0;
Ohio 20, Vanderbilt 0;
Michigan 13, Ohio 0;
Ohio 12, Northwestern 0;
Ohio 21, Indiana 0;
Ohio 20, Penn 7;
Ohio 6, Wisconsin 0;
Ohio 7, Illinois 6.
In the squad of 58 announced by the press department, only 12 are seniors.

BIRDS PLAY TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Baseball fans in this district, all pepped up over the prospect of another Little World's Series championship, today forgot their predictions that the Columbus Red Birds would fold up at the crisis and sat down to await the beginning of the American Association division play-offs next Tuesday.

The Red Birds will meet Minneapolis, champions of the western division of the association following the latter's defeat of St. Paul by a score of 6 to 3 yesterday.

Winners of the sectional play-offs will represent the Association in the minor league championship series with the victor in the International league, not yet decided.

The first three games of the Association play-offs will be staged in Minneapolis next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with the teams coming to Columbus to play until one has won four games.

Cacao Used as Money

Cacao was used as a means of barter and the payment of tribute by the Aztecs and Mayans. A man's wealth was often judged by the number of cacao beans he possessed. In Mexico a good slave could be purchased for 100 beans. Its highly concentrated food value, low cost of production, and numerous uses have stimulated cacao cultivation.

'HEAVY' WORK ORDERED FOR BISHOP SQUAD

Addition of Coleman, Steubenville Centr., Expected To Aid Line.

DELAWARE, Sept. 14.—The usual light workouts for the opening weeks of practice have been discarded by Coach George Gauthier as he begins his fourteenth year at the helm of Ohio Wesleyan's football team.

When his squad of 50 men reported Monday, he gave them one long drill of calisthenics, but before the day was over they were bumping into one another with abandon, tackling the dummy viciously and otherwise cavorting in mid-season form.

HEIDELBERG FIRST

Gauthier wants his squad to be in the finest of trim for the first game with Heidelberg here on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 29. He anticipates trouble from the Student Princes' usually strong line, and wants his own forward wall prepared for a battle. Still workouts, he believes, will put the linemen in the proper physical and mental condition for the opener.

One of Gauthier's biggest worries in pre-season plans was whether or not Rall Coleman, Steubenville, a sensational center on the freshman team two years ago, would be back after a year's absence from college. Coleman reported this week, thereby relieving Gauthier's mind, for now he believes the center hole will be plugged successfully.

MOHLER IS HEAVIER

The fullback situation appears brighter with Henry Mohler, Dayton, a sophomore regular last year, back in the fold and with 15 pounds added to his weight. Joe Whalen, Cleveland sophomore, also has reported after a brief uncertainty which surrounded his probable return, but Bill Turner, St. Louis veteran, has still to report. Turner is big and powerful and is the best placekicker on the squad.

KINGSTON

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met in a most delightful meeting at the pleasant home of Mrs. C. L. Hinkle of West Pickaway street, on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order at 2:30 o'clock.

The following program was presented—Reading "Toward the Understanding of Japan," "The Attitude of China toward Japan" was read by Mrs. N. J. Dunlap. "The Attitude of the United States of America toward Japan" interesting and profitable discussions followed the papers. Mrs. Martha Mundell read "Ten Ways to Kill a Missionary Society," which was most amusing. The president announced that sixteen dollars was the amount received from the Ice Cream Social held in June.

The social hour following the meeting was enjoyed by the ten members present. Delicious refreshments consisting of chicken sandwiches, cookies, coffee and grapes were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunn, Mrs. Curtis Dunn and son Robert Lee, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dunn and family near Cedar Hill.

Mrs. Mary McCullough left on Wednesday morning by motor for a visit with relatives and friends at Ft. Wayne, Chicago, Ill., Two Rivers, Wisconsin and Chicago, Ill. Mrs. McCullough expects to be gone two weeks.

The Order of Eastern Star No. 411 met on Tuesday evening in a most delightful meeting after the Summer vacation, in the Masonic Temple, which was beautifully decorated with many baskets and roses of Fall flowers and posies. At seven o'clock a delicious pot-luck dinner was served cafeteria style and enjoyed by about fifty members and guests. After the dinner regular business meeting was held. Communications were read from Grand Chapter urging all members to attend the annual meeting to be held in Cleveland, O. At the close of the business session Miss Dorothy Gearhart, one of the younger members, delighted the chapter with a beautiful piano solo. The

All of last year's regular backs including Howard White, Circleville speedster, are in camp, which gives Gauthier an optimistic outlook for the season.

FEDERAL HOUSING PROGRAM LAUNCHED AT MEETING HERE

GILLILAND IS NAMED COUNTY CHAIRMAN

A campaign to enlist Pickaway county property owners under the Federal Housing program was underway today following an enthusiastic meeting in the common pleas court room Thursday evening, when T. O. Gilliland, Pinckney-st., was named permanent chairman.

M. E. Corotis, assistant director of the housing administration for the southern district of Ohio, explained the housing program to approximately 40 present and then announced the following committees to head the organization in this county:

T. O. Gilliland, chairman; advisory committee, Durward Dowden, John D. Hummel, Alfred Lee, Homer Fuller, R. P. Enderlin, and Mack Parrett Jr., secretary; finance committee, R. P. Enderlin, chairman, and publicity committee, K. J. Herrmann, chairman. More members are to be added to the latter committees, it was said.

TO SPEND AND EMPLOY

Explaining that the program was a spending and employment giving campaign, Mr. Corotis said that a house-to-house campaign would be conducted in Circleville to determine the need for modernization of homes. This canvass will be arranged at a later date by the leaders in charge of the local program.

"Now is the time to make improvements," Mr. Corotis said. "The National Housing Act was designed to help you improve your property and increase its value and usefulness. Through one of the simplest and most reasonable systems of financing ever devised, the act makes it possible for you to make delayed repairs and provide better surroundings for your family."

Here are some questions about the act which were answered last night:

Who may apply? Any property owner, individual, partnership, or corporation, with a regular income from salary, commissions, business or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

APPLY TO BANKS

To whom are applications made? To any national bank, state bank or trust company, savings bank, industrial bank, building and loan association or finance company approved by the Federal Housing Administration, or to a contractor or building supply dealer.

Is money borrowed from the government? No.
How long may notes run? For any number of months from one to three years.
What security is required? Only that you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community.

What assurance need I give? That you own the property; that the annual income of the signers of the note is at least five times the annual payment on the note; that the mortgage, if any, is in good standing and that there are no past due taxes, interest or liens against the property, and that you will use the proceeds solely for property improvements.

The Herald will continue to print more of the questions and answers.

How and When to Serve Appetizers Simple Matter, Declares Mrs. Thurn

Dear Friends in Circleville:

Our party menus, and other menus for special occasions are usually much more complete than the meals planned for every day. And on these special occasion menus we often find the first course running monotonously on as either fruit cup, or soup, or tomato juice. Now any of these may be welcome to family and guests, but for the sake of variety these menus should be made a little more cosmopolitan. Yet when a menu calls for an appetizer as the first course many women shy away from it as if it were some rare, unheard of dish to be concocted only by a chef, at great cost to all concerned.

Simple Ones Best

The appetizer may be a simple, easily prepared and economical beginning for the meal, for appetizers are varied. The appetizer is just what its name implies, something to whet the appetite and prepare it for the more filling dishes to come. If a beverage cocktail is served before the menu, in the living room, the appetizer may be served with it. Or it may constitute the first course at the dining table. If served in the living room it should be small and of such character that it is eaten without the aid of a fork; at the table the appetizer may be eaten with the fingers, or with the aid of small knife and fork (such as a salad knife, or special fruit knife now used for the appetizer) or with the fork alone. Of those picked up in the fingers are small stuffed celery, small bits of toast, or crackers spread with a savory mixture; tiny biscuits or minute sandwiches. The fillings for these are such delicacies as caviar; anchovy paste; cheese; boned anchovies; boned sardines; relish and cheese combinations; olive and cheese combinations, being the most popular.

The toast on which these mixtures is spread is cut in square, round, oval, diamond and other shapes; the crackers should be crisp and interesting in themselves, such as the crackers sprinkled with poppy seed or caraway seed, cheese crackers, whole wheat crackers, celery crackers and similar commercial ones to be found at all grocery stores.

At the Table

At the table stuffed celery is often a preferred appetizer, the stuffing consisting of cheese mixtures such as equal parts of Camembert and Roquefort cheese, seasoned with salt, Worcestershire sauce and a little pepper; or equal parts of cream cheese and anchovy paste; or pimiento cheese. When served the celery should be alternated on the plate with long toast "fingers" covered with caviar, red caviar, an anchovy mixture, or a spicy mixture of deviled ham and chopped egg.

Tomatoes Supreme

A delightful appetizer is made with very small ripe tomatoes. Six small tomatoes; two tablespoons cream cheese; one half cup cream; one tablespoon chili sauce; one tablespoon catsup; one half teaspoon paprika; pepper and salt. Remove the centers from the tomatoes, have very cold, and dress the inside with chilled French dressing. Mix the cheese, cream, chili sauce, catsup, paprika and seasonings together with a smooth cream. Fill the tomato shells, and chill thoroughly. Place a curled anchovy or a slice of stuffed olive on top; set each on a small fancy plate with a garnish of watercress or fresh mint. A small fork, or salad fork is served with this.

Olive Supreme

Buy the largest ripe olives available; cut off a slice of the top and carefully hollow out the center; fill with the same mixture as above, and garnish with either a curled anchovy or a little bit of tomato aspic. Serve four as the appetizer; sprinkle each with grated hard cooked egg for additional color.

Tomatoes and Tuna Fish

Prepare six small tomatoes as above; have ready two hard cooked eggs; one small can of tuna fish; three tablespoons of mayonnaise. Chop the eggs, blend with the minced tuna fish and mayonnaise. Fill the hollow of the tomato with this, chill, and garnish with a slice of stuffed olive or a little dab of caviar in whipped sour cream.

Beats Caroline

Six medium sized boiled beets; two hard cooked eggs; one sweet pickle; two teaspoons anchovy paste; three tablespoons mayonnaise. Remove the center of the beets, dress with French dressing. Chop up the eggs and sweet pickle, mix together with the mayonnaise and anchovy paste. Fill the hollow with the mixture. Have very cold; top with a little mayonnaise.

Another good stuffing for such an appetizer is chopped boiled shrimp salad mixed with mayonnaise; garnish the top with chopped hard cooked egg and a little dab of sour cream.

Cold stuffed crabs, shrimps in aspic and other small jellied salads are equally good as appetizers. But the serving must be small, cold, savory, and served on some unusual shaped plate, such as the small crescent shaped salad plates, or the leaf shaped majolica plates now so popular.

Mrs. George Thurn.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Plight of South's Cotton Share-Croppers a Major Concern of New Deal

PRIDE, Alabama.—The Department of Agriculture, way up in Washington, is staging a losing fight with Seth Holt and his two sons and their watermelon.

There is no law in this State to keep a man from eating watermelon, but to the Government there is some significance in the fact that this is the principal occupation of Seth and the two grown boys as they sit in the shade in the midst of their worn-out cotton acres.

The Government has a material interest in the life of the three Holts and the thousands of other "share-croppers" of the Cotton Belt, for through the AAA it has poured out the vast sum of $163,624,878.56 in the past year in an effort to save the cotton crop from a ruinously low price and cotton farmers from destruction.

The Holts live in a bleak, unadorned shack that stands by the dusty road a mile west of here.

The shack is not their own, nor did it belong to the family who lived there last year, nor the family before that. The fact that the windows have neither sashes nor shutters will not trouble them next winter, for they will not be there.

Indeed, there is reason to doubt if they will last through the present month and into the picking season. A man can't live on watermelons.

*****

"No Furnish"

"Trouble is, some of 'em don't give you no furnish in the growin' season. They take care of you long as you're workin' on the crop, and then they shut down on you."

The older boy was speaking, quite without bitterness. He held a red cube of watermelon on the end of his knife, took it into his mouth, calmly spat the seeds at a hound dog stretched out in the dust.

"If you can't get through to pickin' season, you have to move on, and he gets everything—the whole crop."

The "furnish" about which he talked is the system of "furnishing" and "deducting" food and keep during the season. It is the curse of the Holts and all their kind in the deep South.

Never out of debt, they are kept by landlords who provide them with "furnish" and deduct the cost, plus high interest from the proceeds of the cotton crop.

Ask Holt why he moved from the fields "over yonder" last year. He says, with a wry smile: "The deducts got me."

Among the negroes, the explanation is more fanciful. They say of a "cropper" who has moved on, "The owls got him."

*****

Out of Debt?

Here in Pride there is a landowner who is also a storekeeper. For four years he has kept the "croppers" on his land, advanced provisions, kept books that have been read for four years.

He is pleased with the high price of cotton and the Government bounties. He says his men will benefit greatly. He really means that he will benefit.

"Yes, sir," he says, "they'll all be able to pay me what they owe me this year—all except one."

A man who can get out of debt is fortunate in these parts. And he is rare.

Four miles west of Pride there is a landowner who says: "The Government's doin' great things. Some of the croppers will get out of debt—maybe one out of every ten."

*****

Landless Army

Thus in the now reasonably prosperous South, you run up against the fact that there is a vast, footloose army of cotton workers without cotton acres, living in hovels, taking up panhandling in the cities, living on relief.

Thus also the New Deal finds that in tackling the economic question of boosting the price of cotton, it ran into a social question. (Continued on Page Seven)

RHODE ISLAND WAR ON REDS GAINING SPEED

Governor Warns of Danger As He Appeals for Federal Troops

LEGISLATORS MEET

Strike Area Quiet Today After Clashes

By International News Service. Possibility of intervention by federal troops to preserve order in strike-torn Rhode Island textile areas dimmed today as national guardsmen consolidated their control and established order throughout the region.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 14.—While weary national guardsmen with fixed bayonets ruled the Rhode Island strike riot zones today—politics in the legislature having raised a seemingly impassable barrier to a call for United States army soldiers—a statewide roundup of Communists continued.

"We are face to face now, not with a textile strike, but with a Communist uprising," were the words of Governor Theodore Francis Green in a special message to an extraordinary session of the Rhode Island assembly.

A resolution declaring a state of insurrection and appealing for the regulars was prepared by the governor after serious riots in Woonsocket, Saylesville, Central Falls and Bristol, had caused a toll of two dead and scores injured.

MAY LEAVE STATE. Reports that radicals, being balked in Rhode Island, might invade the neighboring state of Connecticut, caused anxiety there.

Fifteen known Communists, one of which signed a statement admitting taking part in the Saylesville riots, were arrested here.

Police in other cities, acting on the appeal of Governor Green, were keeping a "concerted" drive against Communists.

At the same time, two United States immigration inspectors and two department of justice agents, arrived from Washington, after reports were current that there had

MAYOR CADY URGES CLEAN-UP OF LOTS

With the dates of Pumpkin Show rapidly approaching, Mayor W. B. Cady today called upon all owners of vacant lots in the city to have the weeds mowed down so that the city will present a well-coming appearance when the show opens.

"Many lot owners have been careless in this respect and we would appreciate their cooperation by having the weeds mowed down at once," the mayor said.

Electric Company Is Ending Impediments

To eliminate much of the interference which bothers radio listeners and to insure continuous electric service in Circleville during the progress of storms, the Southern Ohio Electric Co. has a force of 30 men in this territory, removing trees along its high tension lines.

The work will eliminate the possibility of trees blowing into the line and causing breakdowns. In this territory, trees are being removed along the cross-country high tension lines between Chillicothe and Circleville, Chillicothe and Jackson and Chillicothe and Hillsboro.

COAST HUNTED FOR AIRPLANE

Unidentified Plane Reported Over Atlantic; Airports Checked.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Sighting of an unidentified airplane over the Atlantic, about 200 miles southeast of Halifax, heading in the general direction of the Atlantic coast, was reported today by the skipper of the S. S. Black Gull.

The Sayville, L. I., station of the Mackay radio at 7 a. m., E. S. T., intercepted the following general broadcast from the master of the ship:

"Latitude 42.06 N., longitude 63.51 W., sighted airplane flying low heading west southwest. Wind northeast. Fresh breeze. Overcast."

All airports in the immediate vicinity of New York expressed surprise when told of the report from the Black Gull's master. Pending official confirmation of the report, preparations were being made to receive the plane should it land here.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—All British airports were canvassed without success today for the possible identity of a plane reported sighted off the coast of Nova Scotia, heading west.

The British air ministry said it knew nothing of any trans-Atlantic attempt being under way.

CONTRACT FOR GAS PIPE LINE INTO CITY LET

Phipps Reports Job Let for $1,350,447; Contractor Not Named

WILL CROSS RIVER

Condemnation Plans to be Started Soon.

Contract for the laying of the Universal Pipe Line Company's new gas lines from the Ohio river at Ashland, Ky., to Circleville has been let at a cost of $1,350,447.36, W. H. Phipps, president of the concern, has announced.

City council recently passed an ordinance to supply gas to Circleville consumers at a 45 cent rate. Since passage of the ordinance, no word had been received from the new concern until Mr. Phipps' announcement today.

ASKS CROSSING PERMIT. Although declining to disclose the names of the contractors or the source of the gas, Phipps said that Wade Ellis, former Ohio attorney general, is now in Washington, D. C., making arrangements for the permit to cross the Ohio river at Ashland. It was decided to cross at Ashland, he said, rather than at Portsmouth, because Ironton is also interested in the proposition.

Mr. Phipps indicated that work on the laying of the pipe line would begin next week, adding that the company, which was recently incorporated, had set aside $9,000,000 for its gas properties, including fields and pipe lines.

PLANS CONDEMNATION. It is probable that Mr. Phipps will attend the next meeting of the city council to be held next Wednesday, and have a resolution to condemn the city of Circleville of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. plant here. The Universal Co. has agreed to indemnify the city of Circleville against the cost of such procedure.

Lady Adrian Baillie

A cool $500,000 is what Lady Adrian Baillie, above, heiress, granddaughter of the late millionaire William C. Whitney of New York City, dropped over the casino tables at Cannes, France, say croupiers who call her the greatest loser at the Riviera since the depression set in. Reports add that Lady Adrian showered 5,000 francs on a down-and-out gambler who begged a few coins.

FARM CENSUS TO START JANUARY 1

Government Seeking Complete Information; Local People To Do Work.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 14.—The agricultural census of Fickaway-co is expected to get underway about January 1, 1935, it was learned at the U. S. Census Bureau today.

The work, which is expected to give employment to from 12 to 20 residents of Fickaway-co during a 30-day period, will be the most complete census of farm activities and conditions in the county that has ever been undertaken by the Federal government.

The jobs to be created in Fickaway-co will be controlled and disbursed by local Democratic leaders operating in cooperation with the state patronage dispensers.

In districts where the incumbent Congressman is a Democrat he will recommend to the Census Bureau the appointment of the supervisor who in turn will employ the enumerators.

The census of agriculture will include the name and address of the farm operator; farm tenure; farm acreage, which includes all crop land, all pasture land, and all farm woodland; the total value of the farm; the acreage and yield of each of the principal field crops and vegetables; the number of trees and the yield of each of the principal fruits; the number and value of each class of livestock, poultry and eggs; and farm population.

COLUMBUS REFUSES RATE COMPROMISE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Further negotiations today were under way between the Columbus city council and the Columbus Railway Power and Light Co., following the rejection by council last night of a proposed compromise electric rate which would save local consumers $734,000 annually.

J. Paul Blundin, city consulting engineer, told the council he did not believe the compromise proposal was fair to the city.

7 Climbers Including American, Found Dead

PARTENKIRCHEN, Germany, Sept. 14.—Seven mountain climbers, including an American named Karl Amman, were found dead today in an isolated spot in the Bavarian Alps.

The climbers had been missing for several days and search parties had been sent out to look for them.

Schools Start Work For Parade

In his great recovery program, President Roosevelt has had much to say about the use of leisure time, and realizing the importance of his statements, school leaders decided that it would be in conformity with the trend of the times, to allow high school students to depict the wise use of "spare" time.

The following schedule of occupations and professions, which grade students will portray, has been tentatively worked out by school principals: Grade one, dairying; grade two, medicine; grade three, mining; grade four, farming; grade five, milling and baking; grade six, canning and lumbering; grade seven, paper making, and grade eight, engineering.

In showing the leisure time activities of a high school, these students will be presented as athletic groups, school activity groups, such as dramatics, music,

SLEW NAGGING WIFE, JAIL MAN FOR YEAR

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A British judge and jury today agreed in an unprecedented decision that a man who kills his wife because she "nags" him is not guilty of murder.

Sydney Haggerty, 41, successfully pleaded that he was driven to strangling his wife because she continually nagged him.

The charge of murder was reduced to one of manslaughter, and Haggerty was sentenced to only one year's imprisonment in Old Bailey.

In summing up the case the judge pointed out that Haggerty was a "nice, peaceable man" whereas his wife was "quarrelsome and violent."

NEW EVIDENCE IN SHIP PROBE

Storekeeper Tells Liquor, Polish, Other Inflammables Kept On Ship.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Liquor and other highly inflammable stores were used on the ill-fated Morro Castle, according to testimony given at the federal inquiry here today by William O'Sullivan, of New York city, the liner's deck storekeeper.

This revelation created a sensation.

O'Sullivan was asked by Chairman Dickerson N. Hoover of the inquiry board if there were any inflammable stores aboard the Morro Castle.

"Yes," replied the witness, as the spectators leaned forward. "Turpentine, kerosene and varnishes."

Hoover asked O'Sullivan what the kerosene was used for.

"For polishing," the witness answered.

Q. Was liquid polish used on the ship?

A. Yes. They were supplied with a paste polish but I know there was a highly inflammable polish used on the boat.

Q. What was it?

A. I can't think of the name. It smelled of benzine. It was highly inflammable.

Chairman Hoover asked O'Sullivan if he permitted any of the liquid polish in his storeroom.

"No sir," responded the witness, emphatically. "The Ward line did not permit it."

"But you knew it was on the ship?"

"Yes, the stewards used it all the time."

"Did the officers know they were using it?" asked Hoover.

"Yes sir, I think they did," replied O'Sullivan. "It was used on the bridge to shine brass."

RECKLESS MACHINE DRIVERS FEEL IRE

Reckless autoists were still the object of Fickaway-co law authorities today.

Thursday afternoon, Deputy Sheriff Miller, arrested the first person this season charged with passing a school bus. Bernard Nelson, of 2365 Sullivan-ave, Columbus, was fined $10 and costs and committed to the county jail by Justice H. O. Eveland for passing a school bus on Route 23, south of town.

It was later learned that Nelson, accompanied by his wife and mother-in-law, was driving with fictitious license tags.

Judge J. W. Adkins fined Glenn Lightie, of Washington C. H., $10 and costs for driving recklessly on Route 22, west of the city. He was arrested by Deputy R. E. Armstrong. He made arrangements to pay the fine and was released.

TWO PETITIONS FILED WITH BOARD

Two petitions carrying names of 34 Fickaway-co residents had been filed today with Harry E. Weill, deputy clerk of the board of elections, by the Commonwealth party, the names of nine residents included.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—Secretary of State George S. Myers was to be asked today for a ruling on the legality of several nominating petitions submitted by candidates of the Commonwealth party which were rejected yesterday by the Ross County election board.

Clarence Brown Tells 400 Party Enthusiasts at Dunlap's Bill Has Been Handed to Taxpayers for Payment; Bricker Praises Nominee

DEMOCRATS ATTACKED IN ORATORY FLOW

Renick Dunlap Charges Underwood With Being "58 Per Cent" Representative; Assails His Pre-Primary Methods

Termining the present state campaign as "the most important political struggle waged in this generation, Clarence J. Brown, Republican candidate for governor, charged Thursday evening "the state administration has Tammanyized Ohio and handed the bill for payment to the taxpayers."

Speaking at the 11th district Republican rally at the Congo farms, near Kingston, of Renick W. Dunlap, Republican candidate for Congress, Mr. Brown devoted the greater part of his address to assailing the need for reduction in the governmental machinery and economy in operation.

Saying that the cost of government has steadily increased the face of an insistent demand on the part of the taxpayers for "hard-headed economy," Mr. Brown declared that "tax burden has been added to tax burden." New departments, bureaus and divisions of government have been created in outstanding numbers.

COP'S APPEAL NOT YET FILED

Radcliff Must Take Action Within Ten Days, It Is Reported.

Whether or not Carl K. Radcliff, suspended policeman, would contest his suspension effective last Saturday night, was a matter for conjecture today. Although it was announced earlier in the week that an appeal would be filed Thursday it has not been forthcoming.

Radcliff, who is charged with immoral and disorderly conduct by Police Chief W. H. Warner, has only ten days after the date of the suspension in which to file the appeal. If action is not taken within that time the suspension will continue indefinitely, it is believed.

No officer will be named to take Radcliff's place because of the condition of the city treasury.

Mayor W. B. Cady has pointed out, "It is even possible," the mayor said, "that we will lay off more policemen and a fireman or two."

Radcliff had been serving as a night officer since the first of the year.

HUNT FOR MISSING GIRL, 23 RESUMED

PINEDALE, Wyo., Sept. 14.—Search for Miss Virginia Ewing Gates, 23-year-old daughter of Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania, passed today with rumors that she had been seen in Lincoln, Neb., following similar reports from Omaha.

Sheriff W. B. (Pat) Holt of Sublette-co insisted that the girl who disappeared from the Dude ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dew near here had left this region. He said that he had definitely established that she was in Rock Springs, Wyo., on Aug. 20, and had presumably hitch-hiked eastward from there.

Both Sheriff Holt and Dew scouted the idea that she had become lost in the wooded hills surrounding the ranch and had perished there. Dew said that she had been over every step of that region and knew it like a native. Since her disappearance, a month ago today, searching parties from this ranch have gone over the entire area without finding any trace of her.

MISS MILLER DIES

Mrs. John Strahan, 150 Watt-st., received word Thursday night of the death of her aunt, Miss Elizabeth Miller, 81, of Columbus, which occurred Thursday.

The deceased was born in Circleville, Oct. 26, 1852. She was an active member of the Methodist Episcopal church of which she was a life-long member.

Funeral services will be held at the late residence, 80 Third-ave, Saturday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

BEN HADDOX FACES RETURN TO PRISON

Ben Haddox, of Williamsport, was fined $100 and costs and committed to the county jail Friday by Mayor W. B. Cady on a charge of stealing an auto, tire and tube from Francis Baker, Logan-st.

Haddox is on parole from Mansfield reformatory and is expected he will be returned there.

Canned Fruit Juices Add Zest To Winter Menus

Wholesome and delicious beverages, a pleasant addition to the daily menu, can be obtained from fruit juices canned now.

Grapes, tomatoes, currants, blackberries, and raspberries make excellent juices to have on hand for the emergency food shelf. Wouldn't you like to have a pantry shelf that contains these home-canned juices? The popularity of tomato juice, alone, justifies its preparation in quantity to be used for breakfasts or appetizers all winter through.

To make any fruit juices, first wash bottles, jars, caps, and rubber in boiling water. This sterilization of the containers is very important to the keeping of the juice.

Select only solid fruit which has fully ripened and discard all green, unripe, over-ripe, or spoiled fruit. Wash the fruit thoroughly, lifting it from the water rather than pouring off the water. This should be repeated until all sand and dirt is removed. Place the fruit in a kettle and mash with a potato masher and add a small amount of water (1/2 C. to 1 qt. of fruit). Heat over a pan of water or in a double boiler until soft. Do not allow the fruit to boil because this spoils the flavor of the juice. It is important that the juice be processed at a temperature below the boiling point. A range of 180 to 185 degrees is best if you have a thermometer with which to check the temperature.

Pour the juice into a jelly bag and drain. Carefully siphon or pour off the juice from the sediment. After the juice is strained, add from 1/2 to 1 cup of sugar to a gallon of the juice. Reheat to the simmering point.

Pour the hot juice into hot sterilized jars to within 1 inch of the top to allow for expansion of the liquid caused by heating.

Place the bottles or jars in the hot water bath. Cover them and process for 30 minutes at 180 to 185 degrees, maintaining these temperatures as nearly as possible. At the end of the processing, completely seal the jars and remove them from the hot water bath immediately.

Short-Cut Recipe to Delicious Grape Juice

A favorite grape juice is easily made as follows: Wash the grapes and stem. Measure and place 1 cup of grapes into hot sterilized glass jars. Add 1 cup of sugar. Fill the jars with boiling water and seal immediately. Invert the jar for a few hours before storing. This juice will be ready to serve in about 6 weeks.

Tomato Juice—Quick Method

Hot water bath processing is unnecessary in canning tomato juice. Scald and skin the tomatoes. Cook them until well softened. Run the tomatoes through a coarse sieve if you want to make puree, through a fine sieve if you wish a thick juice, or through a cloth bag if you wish to can juice for drinking purposes. Measure juice and for each quart add one teaspoon salt and one teaspoon of sugar. Put into a kettle without any water, start over a slow fire and bring to a full boil. Do not boil the juice for any length of time or you will spoil the flavor. Just bring it to a good boil in order to sterilize, and then can at once.

If you wish to use the tomato juice as a full-flavored appetizer, a spice bag can be added to the juice while bringing it to a boil. Into this spice bag should go a teaspoon of whole cloves, one teaspoon allspice, 1 inch of stick cinnamon and 1/4 teaspoon of pepper.

"I Can Work Every Day Now"

If you must be on the job EVERY DAY, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets. They relieve periodic pain and discomfort. If you take them regularly... and if yours is not a surgical case... you should be able to avoid periodic upsets, because this medicine helps to correct the CAUSE of your trouble.

"I am a factory worker. I was weak and nervous and my stomach and back pained me severely, but since I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets the pains don't appear anymore."—Miss Helen Kellogg, 3906 N. Christmas Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Odell Is Indicted For Onion Strike Trouble

KENTON, Sept. 14.—Okey Odell, 38, president of the Agricultural Workers' Union and leader of the Hardin-co onion strike was in jail here today following his indictment yesterday by a grand jury on charges of pointing firearms and assault with intent to kill during strike rioting at McGuffey.

Odell's indictment was one of eight issued against strikers and Marshal Wolford Weiss of McGuffey, accused of assaulting Henry Branstetter.

The grand jury's action was the latest development in the weeks-long strife between the onion workers and growers over the recognition of the agricultural union, the growers claiming they could not meet the wage scale demanded by the organization, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

OHIO SHERIFF DIES

NEWARK, Sept. 14.—Funeral services were being completed here today for Sheriff Ross Embrey, 41, who died at his home here last night a few minutes after his wife found him suffering with an attack of acute indigestion.

Embrey was serving his first term as sheriff and at the recent primary election was nominated without opposition. He leaves his wife and three children.

POLITICIAN HURT

URBANA, Sept. 14.—Former congressman Charles Brand was in serious condition at his farm home 12 miles east of here today, suffering from a crushed chest and lacerations when his auto collided with a school bus near here yesterday.

Brand will be allowed to convalesce at his home as attending physicians decided his injuries were not serious enough to warrant moving him to a hospital here.

Strongest Living Thing

The strongest living thing, in proportion to its weight, is the beetle. In experiments, scientists found that it can carry a burden 850 times heavier than itself. If man possessed proportionate strength, he could carry a load weighing 70 tons.—Collier's Weekly.

RHODE ISLAND

been an influx of Communist leaders from New York and other cities.

The fear gripping residents in this strike-torn state was demonstrated when guards were posted at the Valley Falls and Cumberland pumping station and a rumor spread of "an alleged Communist plot to dynamite the water supply of the city of Pawtucket." The rumor, however, could not be substantiated. The guards apparently having been posted as a measure of precaution.

Police said they had seized evidence in a raid on a Communist headquarters here to show that the Providence Communist organization was directly concerned with the textile strike disorders in Rhode Island. Nearly a ton of "Red" newspapers, pamphlets, and other printed matter was brought into police headquarters.

49 ARRESTED

Twenty-one alleged Communists were arrested in Central Falls and 28 others in Woonsocket.

None of those under arrest was prominent within or without Communist circles. A majority gave Boston and New York addresses.

PLAN SHOWING PROGRESS FOR STYLE 'REVUE'

Merchants Co-operating; More Details To Be Announced Saturday.

Plans for Circleville's Fall Style Revue, to be staged at the Chilton Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, and made possible through the co-operation of leading business firms, are progressing rapidly and indicate just how delightful the revue will be. Rehearsals are well under way and will continue daily until the opening of the show.

Approximately 15 merchants have announced their intentions of participating in the event which will be one of the most colorful and elaborate presentations ever shown in Circleville. Fashion will be the theme but the Revue will be interspersed throughout with song and dance numbers, making the pageant something more than a mere style show.

The young women who will appear in charming creations depicting the latest edicts of fashion have been picked from among Circleville's most popular girls. The flocks which they will model with all the distinctive charm of the professional mannequin will be furnished by several leading stores of the city.

A special stage setting is being created with a runway leading out over the front section of the theatre so that everyone in the audience may view with ease each lovely mode and her wearer.

In tomorrow's Herald will be published a complete list of merchants participating in the Revue and other details regarding the opening of this event.

POULSON TO MEET OHIO CANDIDATES

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14.—All Democratic candidates for office in Ohio today were invited by Francis Poulson, Democratic state chairman, to attend a campaign "talk-fest" here next Tuesday morning preceding the opening of the Democratic state convention.

"It is our desire to tell all of the candidates for congress, for the general assembly and for county offices our plans for the campaign and how the state organization wants to cooperate with them and get their cooperation in electing as many Democrats as possible November 6," Poulson explained.

Martin L. Davey, gubernatorial nominee and Vic Donahay, nominee for the United States senatorship, will speak at the meeting.

50 YEARS A MARTYR TO CONSTIPATION

But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brought Welcome Relief

Read this splendid letter from Mrs. Haynes:

"For 50 years I have been a martyr to constipation. Have tried every remedy under the sun.

"One day I read an account of some one who had been relieved by ALL-BRAN, but I thought 'What was the use of me trying anything more when all else had failed?'

"A while after, I read it again. That time I thought I would try it, it would do no harm anyway.

"I began with a small dish of your ALL-BRAN for breakfast, and wonderful to say, I never need to take any physic at all now. How I wish other poor sufferers from constipation could be persuaded to try it."—Mrs. Sarah Haynes, 138 Cedarwood Terrace, Rochester, N. Y.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. Also iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. It's so much safer than taking patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get this delicious ready-to-eat cereal from your grocer. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Don't Forget Corn Bread!

As Autumn coolness increases the family's appetites, there are certain additions we can make to the daily menus, which will add nourishment, give variety, please with their flavor and best of all demand but little from the cook in time and trouble. One of these additions is old fashioned cornbread which is universally liked, but sometimes forgotten for months at a time while less nourishing breads hold a place on the menu. Try this recipe for:

Boston Corn Bread

One cup yellow cornmeal; one half cup flour; three teaspoons of baking powder; one teaspoon of salt; one teaspoon sugar; three fourths cup milk; two eggs; one tablespoon shortening. Mix the cornmeal, flour and baking powder well together, add salt and sugar, mix again then add the milk and well beaten eggs. Pour in the melted shortening. Stir well. Pour into a baking pan rubbed with shortening, and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, about twenty minutes. Serve hot.

Molasses Corn Bread

Add one fourth cup of molasses to the milk in the above recipe and omit the sugar, adding one half cup additional flour. Follow the same directions for mixing and baking.

Southern Corn Bread

Two cups white cornmeal; one half teaspoon bicarbonate of soda; one teaspoon baking powder; one cup sour milk; two eggs; one half teaspoon salt. Mix the cornmeal, soda and baking powder together.

Stir in the milk. Beat the eggs and add them to the batter. Rub muffin pans with shortening. Fill them with the batter, bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees, for twenty minutes.

Corn Muffins

One half cup yellow cornmeal; one cup flour; three teaspoons of baking powder; one teaspoon of sugar one fourth teaspoon salt; two tablespoons shortening (one half cup milk); one egg.

Mix the cornmeal, flour, baking powder, sugar and salt, together. Melt the shortening and add it, stirring slowly. Add the milk, and egg well beaten. Put in muffin pans which have been rubbed with shortening, and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, for twenty minutes.

Rice and Cornmeal Bread

One cup boiled rice; two cups white corn meal; four teaspoons baking powder; one half teaspoon salt; three eggs; two cups milk; one tablespoon shortening. Mix together the rice, corn meal, baking powder, salt, beating well. Then add the eggs well beaten and the milk. Stir well, and pour in a shallow pan rubbed with shortening. Bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven, 450 degrees. Serve hot.

Unusual Record

FEW things stand out as more remarkable in the period of depression than Chicago's Century of Progress exposition.
Its second year is proving hardly less financially successful than its first. The attendance this year, which so far has passed the nine-million mark, probably will not be as large as last year when more than 20,000,000 persons entered the gates. A considerable boost probably will be given the present mark.
According to officials, there is a bright prospect that the wind up of the fair will see all of its expenses paid. A gold note issue of $10,000,000 was used in financing the exposition. Already 70 per cent of this has been paid. For the record for such exhibitions.
Even in times of normal prosperity world fairs have been unable to meet any such measure of success as that attending Chicago's show. Just where lies the secret of this is a little hard to say. That the exposition has been managed in an excellent way is evident from the results to date.
Part of the secret probably is to be found in that a really good show was put on. Effective advertising served to bring the first visitors.
The word of the excellence of the show and, thus, were instrumental in causing thousands of others to head for Chicago.
Chicago is justified in feeling proud over the success of the exposition. Because of the depression, hope was not very high at the outset that it would draw anything like the number of persons who have passed within its gates and who continue to arrive.
But this fear was dispelled early in the season last year. Since then, there has been little doubt that an unusual degree of success would be achieved.

Middle age is that period when you think you need more exercise because you need more sleep.

Fix The Blame

THERE are many circumstances in connection with the Morro Castle tragedy that are in need of close examination by investigating authorities.
The cause of the fire that took more than 100 lives still apparently is undetermined. First reports were that the fire was caused by lightning. But statements by survivors have served to cast doubt on this point.
No less confusion exists with respect to happenings that followed discovery of the blaze. This has been increased by conflicting statements of survivors and the efforts of officials of the operating line to prevent members of the crew from talking.
One of the most important questions growing out of the tragedy is why nearly an hour elapsed after the fire broke out before an SOS was sent out. Even then, it appears, the call was flashed on the initiative of the wireless operator instead of on the orders of the captain.
The fact that the burning ship was only about 10 miles off shore and that many other vessels were in the vicinity make it reasonable to believe that the SOS call should have been sent as soon as the fire was discovered there might have been no loss of life, or that the number of dead at least would have been greatly reduced.
Nearly all accounts of the disaster indicate that confusion reigned among officers and crew. What lives were saved apparently was due, in a large measure, to chance rather than to resourcefulness and the calm performance of duty by those upon whom rested responsibility for the safety of the passengers.
The belief seems inescapable that somebody was to blame for the large loss of life; that incompetence or negligence played a big part in the tragedy.
It is the duty of the investigators to place this blame.

"MA CINDERELLA"
by Harold Bell Wright

CHAPTER XXXIV.
"Will you please explain this nonsense?" said Diane, wrathfully. They shrieked with malicious delight.
"You tell her, Sally."
Mrs. McBride explained with mock gravity:
"Why you see, dearie, we-uns have discovered a modern version of the old story wherein the gracious king knights the poor beggar, so that poor beggar may with propriety wed the beautiful princess. In this new down-to-date edition the rich princess finances the poor backwoods moonshiner's mother, that said princess may with more or less propriety have the beggar son."
Diane faced them calmly now. "All of which means, I suppose, that you have discovered Ann Haskel and her son living in my old home."
"Have we discovered them?" shouted the chorus. "You don't know the half of it, dearie."
"Ann Haskel is throwing a party for us." "All the Lodge crowd are invited." "And are we-uns a-goin'!" "I'll say we're goin' and how!"
Diane asked, scornfully: "And would you actually be so crude as to accept an invitation for the sole purpose of making game of your hostess? Really, it doesn't appeal to me as funny."
"It'll be scads more fun than any slumming expedition we ever pulled." "Ozark Ann will be a bigger card than that Apache Indian Bess Converse had on her string last season." "Yes, or Nell Brown's pet prize fighter." "Besides, if we go to Ann's party she'll be bound to come to our Wilderness Club ball." "Oh, boy! Oh boy! won't that be a riot!" "A regular knockout." "Ma Cinderella in person!"
"But it isn't decent of you!" Diane protested. "Really, for well-bred people, I don't see how you can do such a thing."
They received this with a chorus of jeers. "You're a good one to preach to us." "You're qualified to tell us what well-bred people should do." "Yeah, after last summer." "Look what you're doing yourself—you're actually keeping your John Herbert and his ma." "It's really more your party than 'tis Ann's. You know dearie, your home, your money."
Decorately the girl told them about the fortune Ann had inherited. She even tried to explain her active in establishing the mountain woman and her son in the Carroll home. She insisted that neither Ann nor John Herbert knew of her interest in them or that they were in their home or that she was in the city.
Her tormentors received her explanation with jeers and wisecracks and continued ragging her without mercy. It was Mrs. Jones-Williams who fired this parting shot. "We'll see you at the party, dearie."
"Indeed you will not!" Diane retorted warmly. "I have a few shreds of self-respect left even after living with you and your crowd all summer. Besides, as I told you, Mrs. Haskel doesn't even know I am."
When her departing callers were safely in the elevator Diane hurried to the telephone. Upon receiving an answer to her call, she said, "Wilson?"
"Yes, Miss Diane."
"Be careful, don't speak my name. They may hear you."
"Very good, miss, I'm sorry. But it's quite all right."
"Listen, Wilson, I must see you at once. Can you manage to slip away? Something terrible has happened."
"Very good, miss. Yes, I can manage. It's about the party, I suppose?"
"It is, but we mustn't talk about it over the phone. Please come as soon as you can."
"Very good, miss. I shall be with you immediately."
When Ann Haskel told her son of her proposed party, John Herbert, naturally, was not a little disturbed.
"But, mother," he said gently, "you can't invite that Wilderness Club crowd here."
"I'd sure admire to know why I can't."
"Because—well—because it wouldn't be the thing to do. It's quite impossible."
"Hit don't strike me that's anything impossible 'bout hit. I reckon I can afford to have a party if I want."
"I know, mother, but it's not a question of expense."
"What air hit a question of, then?"
"It's a matter of social differences, mother. You know, we don't belong in the same class with the Wilderness Club people."
"You mean them Lodge folks hold their noses above we-uns, I reckon. Wal, son, I used to feel they was better'n me. Then I got to know 'em an' I begun to think mebbe I was as good as them. Here lately I've come to know doggone well that we-uns air a sight better'n what they be. Look at Mr. Belden. He ain't no ways ashamed to be friends with we-uns. Makes hisse' regular home folks. Ain't any one of that Lodge bunch could ever come within sight of him fer equality."
"It's not exactly a question of being ashamed, either," John Herbert persisted.
"Wal, what in thunder is hit a question of, then? Pears like hit's blamed hard fer me to git what you're drivin' at, son."
The young man was forced to admit that it was somewhat difficult to explain. "It's simply this, mother: these people are just not in our set."
"That's what Wilson loved, but I done told him I'd see 'em." The mountain woman's face was grim. "But I tell you, mother, if you attempt such a thing you will only bring disappointment and humiliation upon yourself. Please believe me, won't you?"
"Seems like I can't believe you, son, 'cause you're plain wrong. I know I ain't goin' to be disappointed, 'cause they've all done said they'd come. As fer the humiliation, we'll just have to see 'bout that later."
The young man gasped. "Mother! You're not telling me that you have already invited these people and that they have accepted?"
"I sure am a-tellin' you jest that. Soon's ever Wilson told me they'd come home, I up an' asked 'em. You see, I'd done give Wilson his orders to let me know. Mebbe I best tell you, so's you won't be a-faultin' him, that Wilson tried to git me not to do hit. I done told him, though, as how I had my reasons."
"But can't you see, mother, that we have nothing in common with such people?"
At this Ann laughed slyly. "Pears like as how you done changed your mind since last summer, son. I used to think, from the way you war allus a-hangin' round the Lodge, you war right smart commor with 'em."
The young man retorted with some spirit: "You know very well it was not the Lodge crowd that interested me. I war you, mother. If that gang of morons do come to your party, it will only be to make fun of you. They will simply lay themselves out to make you ridiculous. Have you forgotten all about what they proposed to do for Ma Cinderella?"
Ann Haskel's face set in the old hard lines and her black eyes shone dangerously. "I don't reckon you know your maw so very well yet, Herb, she drawled. "If you did you'd sure know that Ann Haskel ain't never goin' to forget what I hieard them Lodge folks say 'bout me. I'll I've squared hit with 'em fer good an' all."
"Then why put yourself in their hands by giving this party?"
"I figger hit's the other way 'round, son. I ain't aimin' to put myself in their hands. I'm aimin' fer them to put theirs in mine."
The young man made a gesture of hopelessness. "I give it up. It's too much for me."
"Mebbe so," Ann admitted, cheerfully, "but I sure got hit all figgered out. Didn't I hear them a-talkin' what fun hit'd be to make a fool out of old Ann Haskel? Didn't I hear them a-wantin' to take Ma Cinderella to the city so's they could laugh at her? I hieard all the names they called me behind my back. An' I hieard 'em a-tellin' how sorry they war fer you on account of you havin' such an ignorant old she-hellion fer a mother. Wal, son, I'm askin' 'em all to this hiear party of mine so's to give 'em a good chance to go right ahead with what they loved they'd do to me if they had me in the city. I aim fer them to git all the fun they can out of me—which mebbe won't be so much as they're a-figgerin' on."
"I done give orders to Wilson that my party's got to be every bit an grain as grand as any of theirs ever war, an' a little more so. When I've showed 'em what I can do, I'll feel some better 'bout that Ma Cinderella joke."
"You have told Wilson to go as far as he likes," I told him I wanted him to fix up a regular humdinger. I don't care what she costs. He says he's got the only woman in the whole world what can fix up the exact kind of a party what ought to be given in this house, an' that she's right on the job a-doin' hit."
As the date set for the party drew near John Herbert's uneasiness increased. The young man suffered in anticipation all the agonies which he foresaw he and his backwoods mother would be forced to endure at the hands of their unfeeling guests—the ridiculing comments, the sly aspersions and scarcely concealed laughter of that ill-mannered wisecracking crowd. Why on earth couldn't his mother see what she was letting herself and him in for? If only she had consulted him before going ahead with her crude backwoods idea. But now it was too late. The thing was done. His mother had trapped herself and him. They were to be exhibited for the amusement of the spectators. These people would come in the spirit of people on a holiday excursion to the zoo.
But, in spite of John Herbert's certainty that his mother was letting herself and him in for nothing but ridicule and in spite of his indignation and anger that he should be forced to endure such humiliation, there was a deeper feeling of sympathy with her. The young man knew, instinctively, exactly how his mother felt toward the Lodge crowd and under all the heartiness and good nature, the good will and the divine right of "quality," it had reigned supreme. Not since the death of Diane's mother had the place been so joyously alive. During the years of Aunt Jessica, as the members of the old social clan had retired before the advancing modern city hordes, the Carroll place, refusing to surrender, had withdrawn more and more into its lonely self. Behind the stone wall and iron gates it lived alone, surrounded on every side by busy, new blocks and apartment houses, deserted by its own kind, it had had for years no part in the social party. As Ann Haskel said the day of their arrival, "Hit's jest like that thar fairy place whar the princess an' everything war asleep waitin' fer the prince to come along an' wake 'em all up with a kiss."

DAYTON POWER RATE IS SIGNED

New Holland, Other Towns Given Reduction By Dayton Power-Light.

The State Utilities Commission has authorized the Dayton Power & Light Co. to reduce electric rates in several southwestern Ohio communities.
The communities affected by the order are Xenia district: Bellbrook, Cedarville, Clifton, Corwin, Jamestown, South Charleston, Spring Valley, and Waynesville.
Washington C. H. District: New Holland, Bloomingburg, Highland, Jeffersonville, Leesburg, Millersburg, Sedalia and South Solon.
Wilmington district: Bowersville, Clarksville, Harveysburg, Lynchburg, Martinsville, New Vienna, and Port William.
Under the new schedule, residential rates will be seven cents per kilowatt hour for the first 30 kilowatt hour a month; six cents for the next 50 and three and one-half cents for all over 80. The monthly minimum charge is $1 with a penalty of one-half cents per kilowatt hour.
The commission also authorized the Dayton Power & Light Co. to file a new natural gas rate schedule for service at Jamestown under an ordinance passed and accepted on Aug. 5, 1934, and at Jeffersonville, under an ordinance passed and accepted Aug. 24, 1934. The ordinances set the rate at $1 a month for the first 500 cubic feet, 60 cents a 1,000 cubic feet and all excess with a penalty of 3 cents a 1,000 cubic feet and a minimum charge of $1 per month.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THE idlest women I know of are the ones that can't find anything to do but talk about their maids and cooks. And you've no notion how many thousands of women there in this country, in the big cities, that just sit around and try all afternoon to make each other jealous by telling how lazy they are. One will say that she hasn't done a tap of work for years, and the other will go mad until she can think up something that will show that she's lazier than her neighbor. Well, there's a lot of good, old-fashioned women left, you can bet your boots, because no country could go very far with these kind that I've just been telling you about.

And one that I heard about servants came from one of these groups that I've just mentioned. The lady says to the new cook:
"Better serve that sirloin steak for dinner, too, Martha."
"Well," she says, "I'm sorry, but the cat ate that one."
"Cat ate it? What cat ate it?"
"Oh, ain't there no cat? Beg your pardon, Ma'am, I thought you had a cat, of course. Well, all right, I'll serve the steak."

MOVIES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The M-G-M-Cosmopolitan film version of Dashiell Hammett's latest and greatest detective mystery, "The Thin Man," will open tonight at the Cliftona Theatre.
And the best of the screen detectives, William Powell, plays the leading role, with lovely Myrna Loy as his leading lady.
Different from all other detective films, "The Thin Man" is probably the most gripping and exciting picture that has reached the screen recently, yet it teems with sparkling humor and smart dialogue throughout its length.
The story is Nick Charles' story—of a retired detective who is deprived of a pleasure trip to New York on his wealthy wife's money by three baffling murders which he is called upon to solve.

Marian Martin Pattern

A MARIAN MARTIN SET OF FROCK AND APRON Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart Included.

PATTERN 9114
This apron and frock go together like "thus" and "so." But they are not dependent upon each other. Each is an attractive thing in its own right. The apron is a nice little apron which may or may not have a band of plaid—to match the trim of the frock—at the bottom, as attractive as it can be—in fact the apron covers up part of its charms—the pockets and the nice belt that begins in points on each side the unbelled front and fastens in the back. With or without the apron the shoulder capes are effective.
Pattern 9114 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 26 requires 4 yards 38 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting.
Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.
THE FALL AND WINTER ISSUE of the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK is now on the press. It is big fashion news and delightful reading... filled with stunning and easy-to-make patterns for street and house dresses, blouses, skirts, lingerie, sports clothes... all the essentials of a smart outfit for matron, maiden or little child. Avoid the Use of Drugs In "Major Neuralgia"

Authority Gives Facts About Symptoms and Treatment of This Painful Ailment

by ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D. United States Senator from New York Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

RECENTLY ONE of my readers asked for an article on "tic douloureux." It is so painful and difficult to relieve that I can understand the anxiety to know more about it.
Because of the severity of the disease, this disease is sometimes called "major neuralgia." It is entirely different from the common neuralgias of the face, particularly those which accompany bad teeth.
The pain comes in paroxysms. One who has always been free from such trouble may be attacked by a terrific pain in the jaw. I have known persons who never have aches or pains suddenly to develop tic douloureux and pray for death because of the severity of the suffering.
The location of the pain causes the victim to suspect that the teeth are out of order. Several may have been extracted before the real nature of the disturbance has been determined. The nerves become so sensitive that loud speaking, blowing the nose, or eating, may set off the explosion and start the attack.
There may be long intervals between the attacks. Just about the time the patient becomes encouraged to believe he will have no more trouble, another attack sweeps him off his feet.
The doctors call this disease "trigeminal neuralgia," because an important nerve called the trigeminal nerve is the one involved. Wherever this nerve's branches extend out into the face, there are the locations for the pain.

Health May Be Good
The general state of health appears to have little bearing upon these cases. There may be the appearance of perfect health, and yet there may be violent and prostrating attacks of the douloureux.
When the attacks come, hot applications, soothing applications and the other things which usually give comfort in mild attacks of neuralgia, fail to relieve the suffering. They have no effect upon lessening the pain. Nothing but an opiate seems effective.
In this connection, I desire to warn you against the use of opiates. Except under the advice of a competent physician, they should not be taken. Infinitely worse than tic douloureux are the effects of drug addiction.
To relieve the ailment various operative procedures have been recommended. It may be necessary to operate on the nerve ganglion or to remove a section of the nerve. That serves to cut off the branches from connection with the involved part of the nerve.
Of course, before any radical operative procedure is resorted to, milder methods will be tried. One of the ways of treating tic douloureux is to inject alcohol into the nerve. In many cases this will relieve the pain for six or eight months. Of course, this has to be done by an experienced physician who thoroughly understands the anatomy.

Says Ohio 'Tammanyized'

is seeking a supreme court berth; Helen Black Anderson, former district committee woman; David J. Lewis, of New Lexington, who ran against Mel C. Underwood two years ago; Sen. Robert Pfeiffer, of Columbus, representing the Pickaway-Franklin district; and Paul M. Herbert, nominee for lieutenant governor. Herbert was introduced prior to several of the others named but he is mentioned last because his short talk proved of much interest to his listeners.

He arrived in time to hear Renick Dunlap charge Congressman Underwood with being a "58 per cent congressman" attending only that percentage of sessions. Herbert derided the need for congressmen who attended the sessions for which they are elected. He said: "This is no day for duckers. We must elect men to congress who will vote."

Herbert, a former state commander of the American Legion and a former Ohio senator from this district, went on to score the leadership of Governor White and the failure of the legislature to solve the question brought up by the reduction of the mill limitation from 15 to 10. He said: "The nominee of the Republican party for governor is experienced enough to lead this great state out of the rut the present administration has placed it in. He, too, has the courage to direct its destinies."

OVER 300 FEE

More than 300 persons including candidates, district, state and county party leaders including committeemen and women and just plain Republicans, lined up past the cook wagon, which some jokingly said Mr. Underwood must have loaned to the host. Ham sandwiches, baked beans, apple sauce, cold slaw, pickles, ice cream and cake and coffee, plus cigars and cigarettes comprised the menu. Despite the fact that more were at the dinner tables than expected all received well-proportioned helpings. Mr. Dunlap, his wife, their son Nelson and his wife of Chicago, and their daughter, Mary helped during the dinner hour. Other members of the Dunlap family including David and daughter, Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. John H. senior and junior, of Williamsport, and Philip of Kingsport were prominent during the dinner hour.

After a short fellowship hour the evening program got underway with a chorus of men led by Mrs. Albert N. Kishler, of New Lexington, providing music.

Mr. Bricker, who hurried to the Dunlap home from Toledo where he spoke at noon, arrived at 6:50 p. m. and after a hurried meal was introduced as the first speaker.

BRICKER LAUDS BROWN

He covered state issues and said he would not assail the legislature for its leadership because it didn't have any. Mr. Bricker paid flowery compliments to Clarence J. Brown of whom he said "The Republican party of Ohio could not have found a more able man." He went on to say the Democratic party could not solve the state's problems because of its cross-current set-up but the Republicans could because of the harmony which followed Mr. Brown's nomination.

"For the good of all of us it is necessary for the voters of Ohio to elect Clarence J. Brown their governor," he declared.

Mr. Dunlap's address in the afternoon dealt largely upon the alleged shortcomings of his opponent. He charged that Congressman Underwood and members of his family have been paid $120,445.94 in salaries since he took office the first time.

TELLS HIS STAND

Stating his contemplated stand if he is elected to congress, Mr. Dunlap went on record: "I will not oppose a bill because the president is a Democrat, neither will I vote for one because he asks it, but I will use the gray matter in my head to do what I think best for the people of the 11th Ohio district."

He assailed Congressman Underwood for his publication of two letters sent him by Dr. J. M. Lutz of Lancaster, and Harry B. Welch of Rockbridge, congratulating him on his congressional record and offering their aid. "Mr. Underwood did not have the dates of those letters published, neither did he have the entirety of the letters published. That is the kind of man I am running against for congress." He assailed the asserted unethical last minute attack of the congressman on his opponents for the nomination.

Kay or Yvonne? Paris Worries About Maurice

The future marital plans of Maurice Chevalier, French film star, is giving residents of Paris food for plenty of gossip. One faction insists that Maurice plans to wed Kay Francis, above, glamorous American screen star, who now is in Paris. Another faction contends that there will be a reconciliation of Chevalier with his divorced wife, Yvonne, with whom he is shown, inset.

SCIOTO-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

The enrollment for the first grade is 28. There are 13 girls and 15 boys.

The enrollment for the second grade is 28. There are 14 girls and 14 boys.

We are working out a fruit project in the second grade. "Eat More Fruit" posters and a book of fruits are being made in the art classes. Each child is given a card upon which is drawn a bunch of grapes. One grape is placed upon his card daily by each child who has earned it because of perfect spelling. All are trying to be the first to complete his card. A fruit blackboard border adds to the attractiveness of the room.

In the third grade we have 17 girls and 15 boys, making a total of 32 pupils.

In the fourth grade we have 16 girls and 18 boys making a total of 34 pupils.

The enrollment for the fifth grade is 29. There are 12 girls and 17 boys.

Up to date, there are 31 pupils enrolled in the sixth grade, of this number, 14 are girls and seventeen are boys.

One new boy, John Gibson, has been added to the sixth grade. He is a transfer from Franklin-co.

The attendance for the sixth grade has been perfect for the first week, and we earnestly hope this record will not be broken without a very good cause.

The seventh grade has an enrollment of 23 pupils, nine girls and 14 boys.

The Freshman English class is starting the year by becoming acquainted with the dictionary. So far, they have learned the uses of it and are now learning the diacritical markings and proper pronunciation.

The upper class members are making plans for the Freshman initiation, which is to be held Friday, Sept. 21.

All classes except the Freshman class have chosen their class officers. The seniors elected: Carl Gulick, Pres.; Betty Palmer, Vice Pres.; Marvin Wingard, Treas., and Frances Haley, Sec.

The Juniors elected: Carl Younkin, Pres.; Velma Burgett, Vice Pres.; Mary West, Treas., and Helen Mantle, Sec.

The Sophomores elected: Gale Carfrey, Pres.; Emerson Sheets, Vice Pres.; Malcolm Williams, Sec., and Raymond Hott, Treas.

Double Votes

Double the regular schedule of votes will be credited for all subscriptions turned in this week. Just twice the number of votes as shown on the covers of receipt books. This means that you get the same number of votes for one subscription that you would for two under the regular schedule. You can score big under this "two for one" offer this week, by a hard determined effort.

Only ONE More DAY of the . . . EXTRA CASH PRIZE OFFER

Tomorrow night ends the extra cash prize offer in which there is to be given an extra prize of $25 to the one who succeeds in turning in the largest amount of money for subscriptions this week. It is very likely that this week may be the "turning point" for some fortunate member, as in a close race such as this the extra effort being put forth may change entirely the lineup when the reports are made Saturday night. See every prospect possible tomorrow. It may be those few last ones you secure that will win an extra $25 for you.

Fred Perry

CHILLICOTHE COACH WRITES ON RULES

BY T. J. VERNIA

Chillicothe High School Coach As usual, there are a few alterations this season in the football rules. However, quoting the 1934 official football rules, the changes are minor in nature, the principal ones being a change in the dimensions of the ball; second, a change in the forward pass regulations covering an incomplete pass on, above, or behind the opponents' goal line; and third, some changes in definitions and penalties.

To these changes the Ohio High School Athletic Association teams have added another and very important new ruling which permits the throwing of one forward pass per scrimmage anywhere behind the line of scrimmage.

PASS IMPORTANT

In a discussion of the above differences, the last-named stands out as the most important to high school football. The other three, applying as well to college games, will make the game better. The smaller size of the ball will make it easier to handle and to pass, thus opening up the game considerably. The fact that the first forward pass across the goal line is completed will not automatically go to the other side but simply be brought back and count as a down will lead to more goal-line passing. The second incomplete pass over the goal line, however, will be ruled as a touchback and be given to the opponents on the 20 yard line as was formerly the custom on all such passes.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

ABOUT OHIO STATE

For those guys who are not certain what Ohio State's schedule is this year, here it is:

October 6, Indiana.
October 13, a Illinois.
October 20, Colgate.
October 27, at Northwestern.
November 3, at Western Reserve.
November 10, Chicago.
November 17, Michigan.
November 24, Iowa.

Here's some information on the squad too, ground out by the Buckeye news department, headed by Harold Schellenger with Jim Penick on the sports end—There are ten letter-men, Yards, Wetzel, Jack Smith, Rees, Pincura, Captain Monahan, Fitch, Hoeklin, Kabea'o and McAfee * * *

Six are backfield men, one an end and the other three linemen * * * Men on the squad weighing over 200 pounds are: Lewis Zirkle, Defiance, tackle, 207; Millard Scholl, Lorain, tackle, 219; Regis Monahan, Lorain, guard, 210; Gilbert Harre, Toledo, tackle, 201; Chuck Hamrick, Bidwell, tackle, 213; Augie George, Dayton, tackle, 216.

TIPPY IN UNIFORM

The lightest man on the squad, William Henry Dye, known to you as "Tippy"—Dye weighs in at 151, is a sophomore quarterback standing 5 feet 8 inches, and can run, is plenty smart and can toss passes like bullets * * * Too small for the conference, you say? Maybe, but he will be reckoned with when the team is named. We'll wager—You remember Dye as Pomeroy's great dribbling basketball.

Last year's record:
Ohio 75, Virginia 0;
Ohio 20, Vanderbilt 0;
Michigan 13, Ohio 0;
Ohio 12, Northwestern 0;
Ohio 21, Indiana 0;
Ohio 20, Penn 7;
Ohio 6, Wisconsin 0;
Ohio 7, Illinois 6.
In the squad of 58 announced by the press department, only 12 are seniors.

BIRDS PLAY TONIGHT

COLUMBUS, Sept. 14—Baseball fans in this district, all pepped up over the prospect of another Little World's Series championship, today forgot their predictions that the Columbus Red Birds would fold up at the crisis and sat down to await the beginning of the American Association division play-offs next Tuesday.

The Red Birds will meet Minneapolis, champions of the western division of the association following the latter's defeat of St. Paul by a score of 6 to 3 yesterday.

Winners of the sectional play-offs will represent the Association in the minor league championship series with the victor in the International league, not yet decided.

The first three games of the Association play-offs will be staged in Minneapolis next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, with the teams coming to Columbus to play until one has won four games.

Cacao Used as Money

Cacao was used as a means of barter and the payment of tribute by the Aztecs and Mayans. A man's wealth was often judged by the number of cacao beans he possessed. In Mexico a good slave could be purchased for 100 beans. Its highly concentrated food value, low cost of production, and numerous uses have stimulated cacao cultivation.

HEAVY WORK ORDERED FOR BISHOP SQUAD

Addition of Coleman, Steubenville Center, Expected To Aid Line.

DELAWARE, Sept. 14—The usual light workouts for the opening weeks of practice have been discarded by Coach George Gauthier as he begins his fourteenth year at the helm of Ohio Wesleyan's football team.

When his squad of 50 men reported Monday, he gave them one long drill of calisthenics, but before the day was over they were bumping into one another with abandon, tackling the dummy viciously and otherwise cavorting in mid-season form.

HEIDELBERG FIRST

Gauthier wants his squad to be in the finest of trim for the first game with Heidelberg here on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 29. He anticipates trouble from the Student Princes' usually strong line, and wants his own forward wall prepared for a battle. Still workouts, he believes, will put the linemen in the proper physical and mental condition for the opener.

One of Gauthier's biggest worries in pre-season plans was whether or not Earl Coleman, Steubenville, a sensational center on the freshman team two years ago, would be back after a year's absence from college. Coleman reported this week, thereby relieving Gauthier's mind, for now he believes the center hole will be plugged successfully.

MOHLER IS HEAVIER

The fullback situation appears brighter with Henry Mohler, Dayton, a sophomore regular last year, back in the fold and with 15 pounds added to his weight. Joe Whalen, Cleveland sophomore, also has reported after a brief uncertainty which surrounded his probable return, but Bill Turner, St. Louis veteran, has still to report. Turner is big and powerful and is the best placekicker on the squad.

KINGSTON

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met in a most delightful meeting at the pleasant home of Mrs. C. L. Hickle of West Pickaway street 1, on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order at 2:30 o'clock.

The following program was presented: Reading "Toward the Understanding of Japan," "The Attitude of China toward Japan," "The Attitude of the United States of America toward Japan." Interesting and profitable discussions followed the papers. Mrs. Martin Mundell read "Ten Ways to Kill a Missionary Society," which was most amusing. The program was announced that Sister Hickle was the account received from the I. C. Green Social held in June. The social hour following the reading was enjoyed by the two members present. Delicious refreshments, consisting of chicken sandwiches, cookies, coffee and grapes were served.

Mr. and Mrs. David McCorkle and Miss Katherine L. Brundage spent the day in Columbus shopping and visiting relatives. Mrs. Margaret Sull is substituting at the bank in Miss Mildred Hildebrand's place, while she is enjoying a vacation at Buckeye Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Deana, Mrs. Curtis Duane and son Robert, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Duma and family near Cedar Hill.

Mrs. Mary McLaughlin left on Wednesday morning by motor for a visit with relatives and friends at Ft. Wayne, Chicago, Ill., Two Rivers, Wisconsin and Chicago, Ill. Mrs. McLaughlin expects to be gone two weeks.

The Order of Eastern Star No. 411 met on Tuesday evening in its most delightful meeting after the Summer vacation, in the Masonic Temple, which was beautifully decorated with many flowers and roses of Fall flowers and leaves. At seven o'clock a delicious potluck dinner was served and enjoyed by about fifty members and guests. After the dinner regular business meeting was held. Communications were read from Grand Chapter urging all members to attend the annual meeting to be held in Cleveland, O. At the close of the business session Miss Dorothy Gauthier, one of the younger members, delighted the company with a beautiful piano solo. The

All of last year's regular books including Howard White, Circleville speedster, are in camp, which gives Gauthier an optimistic outlook for the season.

MONROE-TWP

A. Sanders has been employed by the board of education as principal for the coming year to fulfill the place of Elton Adams who resigned to accept a position in the high school at Ashland, Ky.

Mrs. Rosanna Davis who underwent a major operation at Berger hospital is getting along as well as can be expected.

Several local boys and girls have enrolled in various colleges, Robert Walter, June Hammault and Frances Arbogast are going to Capital University, Margaret Dick and Evelyn Smith are taking a business course.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Martindale of London died in University hospital Monday, Mrs. Martindale before her marriage was Wanda Lockard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lockard of Five Points.

Mrs. Hattie Byrd of Detroit is spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder of near Five Points.

The sympathy of the community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. John Long who lost their home and all its contents last Wednesday a. m. when fire destroyed them.

which is one of the basic problems of the South.

Two questions, particularly, trouble officials of the A. A. A. One is the fact that many croppers and tenant farmers last year did not receive their full share of Government bounty for plowing under their bursting acres.

The money was sent to the landlords, but it was passed along, it suffered first from a wholesale attack of the "deducts."

Second is the fact that the A. A. A. cotton program has increased the evictions of tenant farmers, added to unemployment.

Usually shiftless and migratory, this was one year when the tenant farmer wanted to hold on. The price of cotton was high, he wanted to stay to enjoy the fruits of his labor.

But acreage had to be reduced by forty percent. The easiest way for the landowner was to "soul a few croppers down the road."

Desk men in the A. A. A. say: "We anticipated that and have put a clause in the cotton contracts to prevent it."

But the clause is toothless. It states that the owner shall, insofar as possible, maintain on this farm the normal number of tenants.

So while King Cotton, higher in price than at any time in a decade, continues to rule the South, Seth Holt and an increasing number of landless croppers spit out their watermelon seeds and move on to the next town.

(Another article on the cotton croppers of the South will be published in the near future.)

FEDERAL HOUSING PROGRAM LAUNCHED AT MEETING HERE

GILLILAND IS NAMED COUNTY CHAIRMAN

A campaign to enlist Pickaway county property owners under the Federal Housing program was underway today following an enthusiastic meeting in the common pleas court room Thursday evening, when T. O. Gilliland, Pinkney-st., was named permanent chairman.

M. E. Corotis, assistant director of the housing administration for the southern district of Ohio, explained the housing program to approximately 40 present and then announced the following committees to head the organization in this county:

T. O. Gilliland, chairman; advisory committee, Durward Dowden, John D. Hummel, Alfred Lee, Homer Fuller, R. P. Enderlin, and Maack Parrett Jr., secretary; finance committee, R. P. Enderlin, chairman, and publicity committee, K. J. Herrmann, chairman. More members are to be added to the latter committees, it was said.

TO SPEND AND EMPLOY
Explaining that the program was a spending and employment giving campaign, Mr. Corotis said that a house-to-house campaign would be conducted in Circleville to determine the need for modernization of homes. This canvass will be arranged at a later date by the leaders in charge of the local program.

"Now is the time to make improvements," Mr. Corotis said. "The National Housing Act was designed to help you improve your property and increase its value and usefulness. Through one of the simplest and most reasonable systems of financing ever devised, the act makes it possible for you to make delayed repairs and provide better surroundings for your family."

Here are some questions about the act which were answered last night:
Who may apply? Any property owner, individual, partnership, or corporation, with a regular income from salary, commissions, business or other assured source. It is not necessary to be a depositor in the financial institution consulted.

APPLY TO BANKS
To whom are applications made? To any national bank, state bank or trust company, savings bank, industrial bank, building and loan association or finance company approved by the Federal Housing Administration, or to a contractor or building supply dealer.

Is money borrowed from the government? No.
How long may notes run? For any number of months from one to three years.

What security is required? Only that you have an adequate regular income and a good credit record in your community.

What assurance need I give? That you own the property; that the annual income of the signers of the note is at least five times the annual payment on the note; that the mortgage, if any, is in good standing and that there are no past due taxes, interest or liens against the property, and that you will use the proceeds solely for property improvements.

The Herald will continue to print more of the questions and answers.

How and When to Serve Appetizers Simple Matter, Declares Mrs. Thurn

Dear Friends in Circleville:

Our party menus, and other menus for special occasions are usually much more complete than the meals planned for every day. And on these special occasions, we often find the first course running monotonously on as either fruit cup, or soup, or tomato juice. Now any of these may be welcome to family and guests, but for the sake of variety these menus should be made a little more cosmopolitan. Yet when a menu calls for an appetizer as the first course many women shy away from it as if it were some rare, unheard-of dish to be concocted only by a chef, at great cost to all concerned.

Simple Ones Best

The appetizer may be a simple, easily prepared and economical beginning for the meal, for appetizers are varied. The appetizer is just what its name implies, something to whet the appetite and prepare it for the more filling dishes to come. If a beverage cocktail is served before the meal, in the living room, the appetizer may be served with it. Or it may constitute the first course at the dining table. If served in the living room, it should be small and of such character that it is eaten without the aid of a fork; at the table the appetizer may be eaten with the fingers, or with the aid of small knife and fork (such as a salad knife, or special fruit knife now used for the appetizer) or with the fork alone.

Of those picked up in the fingers are small stuffed celery, small bits of toast, or crackers spread with a savory mixture; tiny biscuits, or minute sandwiches. The fillings for these are such delicacies as caviar; anchovy paste; cheese; boned anchovies; boned sardines; relish and cheese combinations; olive and cheese combinations, being the most popular.

The toast on which these mixtures is spread is cut in square, round, oval, diamond and other shapes; the crackers should be crisp and interesting in themselves such as the crackers sprinkled with poppy seed or caraway seed, cheese crackers, whole wheat crackers, celery crackers and similar commercial ones to be found at all grocery stores.

At the Table

At the table stuffed celery is often a preferred appetizer. The stuffing consisting of cheese mixtures such as equal parts of Camembert and Roquefort cheese, seasoned with salt, Worcestershire sauce and a little pepper; or equal parts of cream cheese and anchovy paste; or pimiento cheese. When served the celery should be alternated on the plate with long toast "fingers" covered with caviar, red caviar, and anchovy mixture or a spicy mixture of deviled ham and chopped egg.

Tomatoes Supreme

A delightful appetizer is made with very small ripe tomatoes. Six small tomatoes; two tablespoons cream cheese; one half cup cream; one tablespoon chili sauce; one tablespoon catsup; one half teaspoon paprika; pepper and salt. Remove the centers from the tomatoes, have very cold, and dress the inside with chilled French dressing. Mix the cheese, cream, chili sauce, catsup, paprika and seasonings together with a smooth cream. Fill the tomato shells, and chill thoroughly. Place a curled anchovy or a slice of stuffed olive on top; set each on a small fancy plate with a garnish of watercress or fresh mint. A small fork, or salad fork is served with this.

Olive Supreme

Buy the largest ripe olives available.

able; cut off a slice of the top and carefully hollow out the center; fill with the same mixture as above, and garnish with either a curled anchovy or a little bit of tomato aspic. Serve four as the appetizer; sprinkle each with grated hard cooked egg for additional color.

Tomatoes and Tuna Fish

Prepare six small tomatoes as above; have ready two hard cooked eggs; three tablespoons of mayonnaise. Chop the eggs, blend with the minced tuna fish and mayonnaise. Fill the hollow of the tomato with this, chill, and garnish with a slice of stuffed olive or a little dab of caviar in whipped sour cream.

Beats Caroline

Six medium sized boiled beets; two hard cooked eggs; one sweet pickle; two teaspoons anchovy paste; three tablespoons mayonnaise. Remove the center of the beets, dress with French dressing. Chop up the eggs and sweet pickle, mix together with the mayonnaise and anchovy paste. Fill the hollow with the mixture. Have very cold; top with a little mayonnaise.

Another good stuffing for such an appetizer is chopped hard-boiled shrimp salad mixed with mayonnaise; garnish the top with chopped hard cooked egg and a little dab of sour cream.

Cold stuffed crabs, shrimps in aspic and other small jellied salads are equally good as appetizers. But the serving must be small, cold, savory, and served on some unusual shaped plate, such as the small crescent shaped salad plates, or the leaf shaped majolica plates now so popular.

Mrs. George Thurn.
